Live music Sunday nights & happy hour ALL day!

"...seems well suited to fannish groups, although it would be helpful to have a reservation if you have more than six or seven people. The food is uniformly excellent and there are plenty of options if you are on a tight budget or are vegetarian. The décor succeeds in capturing an "old world" feel and the staff is helpful, friendly, and attentive. The drink menu includes lots of locally produced beverages and there are several kinds of huckleberry-flavored drinks popular in Eastern Washington. Desserts are also one of their specialties with many from which to choose and portions that are sizable." --Randy Smith

"I do NOT recommend. My chicken was old and tough even though it was nicely dressed." - Cherise Kelley

"I would not take anyone I liked to Hill's. Biggest advantage is nearby INB, but mediocre food, watered down drinks, prolonged service..."
- Madeleine Geraghty

"I found the pulled pork sandwich at Hills quite adequate, and cheap -- and the service was actually reasonable except for getting us the check." - Tom Whitmore

type of cuisine: Italian, vegan choices

Price range of main dishes: $20-$40

Short description: kid friendly, unbearably noisy inside, sit down, limited sidewalk seating, special decor, full bar

"Like: Really good and interesting breaded lasagna. And a large order was plenty for me and my six foot tall husband. Great homemade bread. Great chicken and rice soup. Good food with vegan choices. Some sidewalk seating, which must be fun during summer.

Not like: The booths are hard, and the chairs are harder. The floor is tile, so chairs make a scraping noise." -Cherise Kelley

type of cuisine: Italian

Price range of main dishes: $10 – $25

Short description: kid friendly, medium noisy, sit down, full bar

Full food menu available at the bar.

"This place has Atmosphere. You walk up a long hallway full of steps to get in there, and it feels like you're going to your Italian buddy's grandma's place. Everyone is friendly and having fun. Even the waiters were whistling along with the music. Our ravioli with the works meat sauce was tasty and filling, plenty for two of us. The works includes meat sauce, two sausages, and four large meatballs. The minestrone soup was good, too, as was the white chocolate huckleberry cheesecake. But you gotta try their homemade special ice cream mixture with the cherries and the almonds and the chocolate shavings. That really hit the spot. They also have chicken, veal, and steak dishes as well as sandwiches and salads." –Cherise

"The salmon lasagna was excellent. They have three private dining rooms of different sizes... The service was excellent." -Kevin Standlee

"Recommend that people stay away from the shellfish." - Carole Parker

You can get any of the pastas with vegan sauce if you want.

Large groups on short notice yes

Wheelchair accessible yes: roll up the parking lot to the back door to get to the main dining room. Only the 40+ private dining room above the main floor is inaccessible.

"This place puts Trader Joe's to shame! It's awesome! They admit most conventioners come in to get bottled beer, and they have GOOD bottled beers from local breweries, along with all your favorites from the big name breweries. They have a big deli that serves health food, vegan, vegetarian, gluten free, you name it. And a bakery. And organic milk and produce and meats. And most of the things you buy in a food market. The market is not cheap, but the deli has competitive prices." -Cherise Kelley Vegan and vegetarian and gluten free choices in the deli and the market. Wheelchair accessible.

"Chunks of the old steam plant remain! They have been partially dismantled and left as art, and they are everywhere you look. The owners just carved the restaurant out of them. It is very cool, especially for Steampunk fans. This was a functioning steam plant until 1986! Yes, nineteen eighty six. It heated the downtown buildings." -Cherise Kelley

"The stout ice cream cake was icy and you cannot taste the bacon in the candied bacon cake. People liked the huckleberry apple tart, though. Soup or salad not included with main dish, but they make it sound like it is. I'll just get coffee and huckleberry apple tart next time." -Cherise

"I liked the beer at Stacks at Steam Plant quite a lot (most of them; the jalepeno beer is one I could have done without, I think.)" -David Weingart

"I found it very much a tourist place with only passable food make edible by good company." -Bobbi Armbruster
