WHAT SORT OF FANS READ FILE 770?

TIME VALUE

Assorted facts: Chicon IV reports commitments greater than needed to make the room-night guarantee at the Hyatt, less than those needed at four overflow hotels. Total membership was 4615 as of 7/16, 3980 attending; shortly afterwards 4866/4231 was reported. The Directors cut Chicon's budget about $25,000 to anticipate a shortfall of $50 memberships. While no dailies will be sold, Chicon has scaled its memberships from $75 at the door Wed, Thur and Fri, to $60/Sat, $35/Sun, $15/Mon.

CASE IN POINT: While Chicon feels the pinch, other cons are evidently being crushed by a combination of the economy and their own numbers. Reports Darrell Schweitzer: "Brandycon, an attempted relaxacon slated for June 18-20, in Delaware, didn't make it. Robert Whitaker tells me that about 15 people showed up, most of them dealers who made no $$$. Jack Chalker, GoH, left after Friday night. This, with the failure of Summercon this year, drives home a point: there are too many conventions, and the weaker ones are being eliminated by fannish Darwinism. I've already missed one con I wanted to go to (Unicon) because there was another I wanted to go to (NECon) the same weekend. I was invited to speak at both. I wanted to go to Lاراcon too, but I had two speaking engagements at other cons (one admittedly in Georgia & set up by my publisher) the two weekends /succeeding/. The prospect of 3 solid weekends of cons just before the Worldcon was too much."

DONALD MILLER DIES: From Don Franson, of the N3F: "I received the following postcard July 7 from Mrs. D. Miller: 'Dear Mr. Franson, I received your postcard and I regret to inform you that my husband Don died last month. He had another battle with cancer and this time he lost the fight. Sincerely, Stella F. Miller.'"

"I never met Don Miller, though I have known him for twenty years. But that's the way it often is, in correspondence and fanzine fandom. He joined N3F in 1963 (I don't know his age), was Directorate Chairman and Editor of TNFF for several years, ending in 1968, and was very active (at one time) in Washington DC fandom, though I doubt if most of them there know him any more, he's been inactive so long because of illness and stays in the hospital.

"He put out giant issues of WSFA JOURNAL and later his own title, F&SF JOURNAL, and many smaller zines, such as gamesletters. He was (turn to page 22)

Disqualified ballots: 11.

Although I had no objection to having the Poll ballot xeroxed for the use of friends, I had to draw the line when confronted with blatant ballot stuffing on behalf of a local Southern fanartist who received no votes from any source besides his hometown club.

SAGE COMMENTS: Having observed what a hopeless task it was to get conscientious trufen to fill out a Hugo nominating ballot, in which they're responsible for knowing the field well enough to sift out the best talent of the year, I tried to encourage participation by making this strictly a popularity contest, with no place-points assigned for the order fans were named in. A little over 2/3 of the fans who sent in a ballot named somebody, anybody, as their favorite artist or writer. Interestingly, over 2/3 of those voters picked somebody as their favorite who was named by no one else... Maybe there's something to that "fragmentation of fandom" talk, and it's gone much farther than the worst cynics claimed!

QUESTION ONE: I listed nine suggested amendments to the Fanzine Hugo rules -- every one seriously suggested by some fan sometime or other -- and asked voters to list them in order of preference. They were (A) Make no change in the rules, (B) Disallow fanzines to win consecutive Hugos, (C) Permanently disqualify a fanzine which has won once, (D) Disqualify any fanzine that sells advertising, (E) Disqualify any fanzine that pays for material, (F) Divide the category into two Hugos based on amateur vs. semi-pro, (G) Divide the Hugo into two categories based on circulation, (H) Ban LOCUS and SCIENCE FICTION REVIEW from competition, (I) Disqualify any fanzine editor who derives a substantial portion of his living from the zine. Several voters thought of one I forgot, (J) Eliminate the fanzine category altogether. Not everyone voted a full ticket, but 123 voters made at least one tick mark. These are the raw numbers:

PLACE:	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Points*
(A) No change	19	9	13	9	9	6	4	4	7	88	Third
(B) Non-consecutive	8	10	6	6	7	6	9	7	1	50
(C) One-win	5	0	3	2	3	2	6	17	10	18
(D) No advertising	6	8	10	13	16	9	3	2	0	44
(E) No payments	13	12	16	13	10	7	2	1	0	79
(F) Am/Semi-pro split	42	19	9	7	8	2	2	0	0	173	First
(G) Circulation split	6	19	15	7	4	11	5	2	2	72
(H) Ban LOCUS, SFR	5	1	5	3	1	5	18	6	15	22
(I) Makes living	15	22	12	13	3	4	4	3	1	101	Second
(J) Eliminate Hugo	4	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	16

Just to help emphasize the direction in which opinion was weighted, I decided to calculate a figure based on 3 points for first place votes, 2 points for second and 1 point for thirds. By this method, there appeared to be tremendous interest in dividing the Hugo into 2 categories for Amateur and Semi-Pro fanzines, and another area of interest in somehow knocking off editors who made a living from their fanzines. Otherwise, the status quo was a significant favorite. There was very negative response to the proposals that would restrict anyone to one win, or that singled out LOCUS and SFR for banishment.

QUESTION TWO: "If Melbourne wins the '85 Worldcon, fans in the following towns are contemplating bidding for a NASFiC. Rank in order of preference." Votes: 113.

AUSTIN: 59

DETROIT: 46

Write ins: Columbus (2), Albuquerque, Minneapolis, Knoxville, etc.(8)

QUESTION THREE: "Rank the following 1986 Worldcon bids in order of preference." Votes: 102. (Bear in mind there is now only one Atlanta bid, formerly Satterfield/Frierson.)

TOWN	1	2	3	4
ATLANTA (S/F)	34	18	19	2
ATLANTA (Celko)	5	23	9	24
NEW YORK	28	25	16	22
PHILADELPHIA	35	23	25	10

See, that's why I take these polls. Up until now, I kept hearing that the Philadelphia bid was hopelessly moribund...

QUESTION FOUR: "In your opinion, does the selection of Multiple Guests of Honor for the Worldcon dilute the individual honor of being GoH?" Votes: 127

YES: 60

NO: 67

Most voters understood the drift of the question, which asked whether multiple PRO guests of honor posed a problem of dividing the honors. In general, yes voters felt the honor of being worldcon GoH was lessened unless the multiple guests were frequent collaborators, or husband-and-wife. Though not all yes voters felt the honor was significantly diluted, there appears to be a large minority of fans who feel that Worldcons should confine themselves to one GoH(pro), and one fan.

QUESTION FIVE: "As of May 1, 1982, how many of the 20 fiction Hugo nominees had you actually read?" Votes: 111.

QUANTITY READ:	ZERO	1-5	6-10	11-15	16-20
VOTERS:	26	40	23	16	6

So much for "science fiction" fandom. Maybe next year I'll take a poll for a new name for this activity...

QUESTION SIX: "Are you a member of Chicon IV, the 1982 Worldcon?" Votes: 127

YES: 94

NO: 33

QUESTION SEVEN: "Did you send in a nominating ballot for the Hugo Awards?" Votes only tabulated for those who answered yes to #6.

YES: 53

NO: 38

QUESTION EIGHT: "What is your favorite soft drink?" Votes: 116

QUESTION NINE: "What is your favorite beer?" Votes: 76

Pts. 33 Coke
 7 Dr. Pepper
 6 Perrier, Pepsi, Vernor's
 5 Pepsi Lite, Diet Pepsi,
 Diet Dr. Pepper
 4 Tab, 7-Up
 3 Squirt, RC 100, Ginger Ale
 2 Orange juice, Diet Rite
 1 Twenty-one different brands

9 Root
 6 Guinness
 5 Fosters
 4 Molson's Golden Ale
 3 Heineken, Miller, Tsing Tao,
 Dos Quis, Moosehead
 2 Grolsch, Anchor Steam Beer,
 Kirin, Becks, Special Export,
 Stroh's, Samuel Smith's Pale Ale,
 Coors, Tooth Sheaf Stout
 1 Twenty different brands

If con suite managers started filling their iced bathtubs according to the ratios of popularity expressed in this poll, they could load up on Coke, and buy one bottle of every beer made, with some confidence of pleasing most fans...

QUESTION 10: "Whether or not you get any... Do you consider sexual activity to be one of the main reasons you go to cons?" Votes: 114

YES: 26

NO: 88

Strangely, of the 26 who answered yes, 16 attended the '82 Westercon! Some classic quotes from the ballots: "It was one." "No, but the anticipation provides an incentive quite beyond the actual incidence." "No, considering the selection." "You're kidding -- have you looked at those people lately? You ask the damndest questions." "My husband and I go to cons together. For sex we sure could stay home -- more relaxing, and cheaper too!" "Not since I became a Christian." "See what a hornet's nest I've stirred up? (Mike Rogers)" "Not any more: going to cons is a substitute for sex."

SCIENCE FICTION CLUBS LIST

INTRODUCTION: This list of science fiction clubs and organizations has been further expanded and revised since its appearance in STARLOG earlier this year. Though large, the list is not encyclopedic, and additional entries are welcomed.

HOW TO USE THIS LIST: The list is divided into two segments. Correspondence Clubs usually serve their members through publications, and may have an annual meeting, or no meetings at all. The balance of the list shows clubs with scheduled meetings, by state.

Because most clubs meet in members' homes, or in public facilities on loan, meeting schedules are frequently revised. Particularly when the club meets in a private home, hosts appreciate knowing who they're inviting. To get the most accurate meeting information and receive a pre-orientation about your local club, you should get in touch with the contact person listed. This is recommended as a courtesy, though virtually none of the clubs named are exclusive in the sense of requiring an invitation to join.

An effort has been made to edit from the list all entries for inactive clubs. As a further guide to the currency of a listing, any entry which was not updated during 1981 is marked: (*)

((continued from page 2)) active in N3F Games Bureau until a few years ago. He did several large issues of his major fanzine as recently as last year... They make a huge stack, mostly containing reviews, bibliographies, and articles of a sercon nature."

As for me (Mike Glyer), Don Miller was a tremendous source of encouragement to my early fanwriting, given that he published the first sercon article I sent to another zine -- and he printed Sandra Miesel's loc correcting my various misstatements... I was fortunate to meet Don at Discon in 1974, and will personally miss him.

I also regretted to hear that ALVA ROGERS, long-time Bay Area fan and author of A REQUIEM FOR ASTOUNDING, recently died of a heart attack.

Just as I am in the process of completing this last stencil, I have also been phoned by Bill Warren, of Seattle, relaying word that Vancouver fan HEN FLANDERS was found dead in her apartment August 14, evidently the victim of a homicide. Andrew Porter also phoned and was kind enough to share confirmation of this which he received from the Vancouver police, and to quash some surrounding rumors that will therefore go unprinted here. Hen did a stint as editor of BCSFazine and served on two V-Con committees, her impact on and popularity in Norwest fandom was tremendous, and I share the sense of shock at her loss.
