INDEX TO THE SCIENCE FICTION MAGAZINES: 1962

Compiled by Al Lewis with the assistance of Fred Patten and Ed Meskys. Mimeography by Al Lewis, John Trimble, and Ron Ellik.
Additional copies 75¢ each from Al Lewis,
1825 Greenfield Ave., Los Angeles 25, Calif.
Cover illustration by E. Loring Ware.
LASFSRexed August 1963 First Printing.

This index is divided into four parts: a table of contents listing, an author listing, a title listing, and an index of book reviews. The entries are arranged alphabetically within each section, disregarding articles a, an, and the, when they occur at the beginning of a title.

THE CONTENTS LISTING: This is a combination of elements used in Bill Evans's and Bob Peterson's magazine index of c. 1949 with those used by Ed Wood in his annual listings for 1951-3. Thus in the AMAZING STORIES listing:

January 1962 (374)	(Ed Emshwiller)	Vol. 36, No. 1
*The Towers of Titan	Ben Bova	NV Emsh 10

The first element indicates the specific issue, followed by the whole number of that issue. Then comes the cover artist and the volume numbering. In the second line, an asterisk indicates the cover story (a # would indicate a back cover story), followed by the story title and author, length, illustrator, and the opening page of the story. Departments are indicated at the head of each magazine listing, although some departments (Ley's and Asimov's science departments, titled editorials) are also listed under their individual titles. Issue, page, and volume numbering follow the individual practice of English and American publishers --thus American publishers include covers in estimating page count; the English do not. American reprint editions of the three Nova publications bear the same issue number and are printed from the same interior plates, but carry a different dating and price. SF and SFA are dated in the lower margin of the contents page.

THE AUTHOR LISTING: Author and Title listings generally follow conventions used in Don Day's INDEX TO THE SCIENCE FICTION MAGAZINES, 1926-1950 and are designed, along with last year's annual index, to be used as a supplement to the long-promised and still-unpublished second volume of that work, which will cover the years 1951-1960. Some modifications have been made: both here and above sources of reprint stories are indicated, and the sources of earlier stories in a series are listed, in order that the present work might be complete in itself. In a typical listing:

REYNOLDS, MACK
Border, Breed, Nor Birth N2pt ASF Jul 100
ASF Aug 104
-seq to Black Man's Burden

The author's name is indicated in capitals, with each story listed in lower case. "N2pt" means a novel in two parts, running in ANALOG, page 100 of the July and 104 of the August issues. This story is also a sequel as indicated.

THE TITLE LISTING: Also follows the conventions used in Day's Index, but is less complete than the author listing in that series and sequels are not listed, and reprint information is sometimes shortened. The style is similar to that of the author listing, except that author and title are reversed.

THE BOOK REVIEW INDEX is a new addition this year. Special instructions will be found at the head of the section, on page 42.

The following is a list of books reviewed in the nine science fiction magazines during 1961, arranged by author or editor of the book reviewed. For the sake of completeness, books discussed in editorials or other special features, and reviews of such miscellany as records, movies, and television programs are included. The latter are placed at the end of the alphabetical listing.

In compiling this listing it was, of course, found that the usefulness of a given review varied markedly from reviewer to reviewer...even when two reviewers gave approximately equal space to the discussion of a given book. The amount of bibliographical information varies from complete in the case of P. Schuyler Miller [who gives publisher's name & city, serial - number {if paperback}, year of publication, number of pages, and price] to Gale who only gives the name of the publisher. As a general rule it was found that Miller's reviews were the most useful. Even when he only "mentioned" a re-issued book he still gave full bibliographical information on it and managed to give some 30 words of discussion per title. On the other hand Gale "covered" 50 books in two pages in the Feb Galaxy giving only two or three words per title.

A number of special abbreviations were used in this section. The titles of the magazines are abbreviated as before, but the following have the special meanings indicated.

A = anthology                      NF = non-fiction                      BR = British
C = collection                      hc = hardcover                      RU = Russian
J = juvenile                      pb = paperback                      US = United States
(title) indicates an earlier title of the same book, [title] indicates another title used concurrently on other editions of the same book -- usually in another country. (title*) or [title*] indicates that there are some major differences in the content of the various editions.

Finally, here is a sample listing plus translation.

POUL ANDERSON                      Poul Anderson's Mayday Orbit was a paper back published in the US and bound with Bulmer's No Man's World. It was just mentioned by Gale [ie, less than  $\frac{1}{6}$  of a page was devoted to the volume] on page 194 of the Feb Galaxy while Miller reviewed it on page 166 of the Feb Analog.
Mayday Orbit [b/w Bulmer's No Man's World] (USpb)
Gale, GAL, Feb, 194, m
Miller, ASF, Feb, 166,  $\frac{3}{4}$ pp
His review was  $\frac{3}{4}$  of a page long and discussed a total of two books in that space. (No attempt at separation is made when two or more books are discussed in a single section.)
