INDEX TO THE SCIENCE FICTION AND FANTASY MAGAZINES: 1963
Compiled and published by Al Lewis with an Index to Book Reviews by Piers Jacob. Copies are 75¢ each from Al
Lewis, 1825 Greenfield Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., 90025.
Cover illustration by Joni Stopa. 1st printing June 1964

Several changes will be apparent in this third annual index. Scope has been expanded to include the fantasy as well as the science fiction specialty magazines. Practically, this has meant the inclusion of Supernatural Stories and The Magazine of Horror and Strange Stories which might otherwise have been omitted. Supernatural might with equal justice have been considered a pocketbook series, but the serial numbering and scheduling seem to justify inclusion here. A similar decision was made in the case of Magabook, which, at least in California, was sold and distributed as a magazine.

Omitted are the British reprint editions of Analog and F&SF, but Venture's contents differ so much from those of its U.S. predecessor that it is effectively a new magazine and hence is included here. The U.S. editions of the three Nova publications, New Worlds, Science Fantasy, and Science Fiction Adventures differ from their transatlantic counterparts only in being dated one month later; issue and volume numbering remain the same and will cause no difficulties.

The book review listing differs from last years' in its organization. One would like to say that this change was made in order to bring the style of the listing into conformity with that of our Index to Book Reviews 1926-1964 which is now being compiled, but it would be more truthful to admit that Piers Jacob's listing was on hand and Ed Meskys's was not; to wait for Ed's listing would have delayed publication of the entire work an additional one to two months.

This Index is divided into four parts: a table of contents listing, an author listing, a title listing, and an index of book reviews. The entries are arranged alphabetically within each section, disregarding "a", "an", and "the" when they occur at the beginning of a title. Abbreviations, with one exception, are alphabetized as if spelled out: "Dr." is alphabetized as "doctor" and "Mr." as "mister". But you will find "Mrs." alphabetized as "Mrs.", not as the obsolete "mistress". Names beginning with "Mc" or "Mac" are alphabetized as if they were spelled "mac" and appear in that order within the "M" section. "De Camp" and "Van Scyoc" are listed under "D" and "V" respectively, not under "C" and "S"; other names with prefixes are treated similarly. Numbers are alphabetized as if they were spelled out.

THE CONTENTS LISTING combines elements used in Bill Evans's and Bob Peterson's contents index of c. 1948 with those used by Ed Wood in his annual listings for 1951-3. Thus in the Amazing Stories listing:

January 1963 (386)	(Lloyd Birmingham)	Vol. 37, No. 1
#It Could Be Anything	Keith Laumer	NV Finlay 24

indicates that the January 1963 issue was whole number 386, volume 37, number 1, with a cover by Lloyd Birmingham. The story illustrated on the back cover (#) was "It Could Be Anything" by Keith Laumer, a novellette, illustrated by Virgil Finlay, beginning on page 24 of that issue. Departments are indicated at the head of each listing, though articles and titled editorials are also listed individually.

New Worlds, Science Fantasy, and Science Fiction Adventures are everywhere referenced by issue number (NW-137, etc.) rather than by date to avoid confusion between U.S. and British editions, and to correspond to older usage, begun when the magazines carried no cover date.

THE AUTHOR AND TITLE LISTINGS generally follow the conventions used in Donald Day's Index to the Science Fiction Magazines, 1926-1950, and are designed to be used as supplements to the long-overdue second volume of that work, covering the years 1951-1960. In a typical listing:

SANDERS, WINSTON P. ps of Poul Anderson
 Industrial Revolution N ASF Sep 17
 -seq to "What'll You Give?"

the author of the story is indicated in capitals; if the name is a pseudonym, that also is indicated, and the real name given if known. "N" means the story was a novel; it appeared in the September issue of Analog Science Fact and Fiction, and began on page 17. The story is also a sequel, as indicated, and since "What'll You Give?" has no information after it, you may find it, also, in this index. The title listing is similar, but with author and title in reverse order. Series of related stories are detailed in the author listing.

THE BOOK REVIEW INDEX is self-explanatory; special conventions needed are explained at the head of the section on page 56.

A list of corrections and additions will be published next year; any comments on and corrections to this listing will be appreciated. Many thanks to Ron Ellik, Charles E. Fritch, Harry Harrison, Robert Lowndes, Kris Neville, Ken Slater, Peter Weston, Roger Zelazny, and many others who have offered information, advice, and so much encouragement.

--Al Lewis

INDEX TO 1963 BOOK REVIEWS

compiled by Piers Jacob

A number of special abbreviations were used in this section. The titles of the magazines are abbreviated as before, but the following have the special meanings indicated.

A = anthology	m = mention, or very brief review	p = page number (if not
C = collection	N = novel	in the regular book
J = juvenile	NF = non-fiction	review section).

The title of the book is listed first, followed by the alternate title, if there is one, the author, the classification of the book, and the magazine title and issue of each review.
