

EVERYBODY'S COMING TO THE MIDWEST FAN CONFERENCE

Midwestcon 53 – The Relaxacon
Ramada Inn Florence
June 27 – 30, 2002

Letter from the Editor

As most are aware, this is the first Midwestcon program book in years, perhaps decades. Not the first one I swear – see the cover for evidence! The first seed was planted when I suggested a restaurant guide to help introduce our membership to our new location south of the river, and it grew into the full fledged program book you are holding with remarkable speed, driven by fertile imaginations and a wave of nostalgia. Indeed, the restaurant guide threatened to grow to such a size (the Greater Cincinnati Metropolitan area has a wealth of good restaurants) that it was necessary to limit the guide to Northern Kentucky, and to include only a sampling of the restaurants not in the immediate vicinity of the hotel. Not only do we have a program book this year, thanks to Michael Jordan we also have a fledgling art show! No programming though – we are still the original Relaxacon! Welcome to Cincinnati, and to Midwestcon 53.

- A double woman in every single room (extra charge)
- Trekkies and gamers will have their own hotel. In Paraguay.

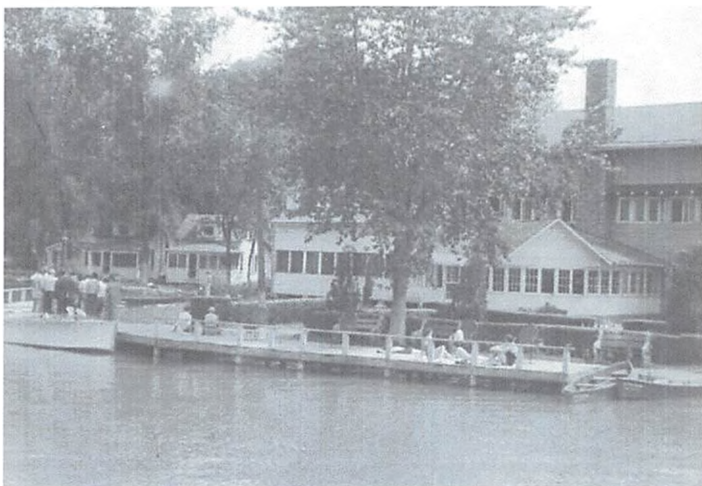

Unforgettable functions:

- The Last DANGEROUS VISIONS launch party
- Marx Brothers film festival (mindless pap and Hugo nominees will be playing at the Indianapolis Drive-in. If it's still in business.
- The hucksters' room will contain books and magazines. A sword is not a book. A doll is not a book. A necklace is not a book. A t-shirt is not a book. A game is not...but we think you get the idea.

- In keeping with the wishes of the (perpetually) late Leah Zeldes, there will be no program, no art show, no panels, no speeches, and no banquet. All 6,000 members are expected to congregate daily at the 7-foot mark of the hotel's swimming pool.

Pre-supporting memberships: $500.00. Pay to Deborah Oakes. If she's not available, pay to Mike Resnick and wish him a good time in Tahiti.
