of the new writers
and the established stars.

FILM PROGRAM NOTES

There will be NO SMOKING in the movie rooms or the parlor connecting them.

NO DRINKS of any kind will be allowed in the movie rooms. I love my Betamax, as do the other kind souls who have brought their machines, and we don't want anything to happen, as accidents are prone to do.

All movies shown have been taped off network or cable TV. Possible visits by FBI agents "courtesy" of two ex-PgHLANGE committee members who don't deserve being mentioned by name.

Some movies will be simulcast in both rooms; most of the time, we will be running two different flicks, PgHLANGE being the con of choices. Anyone with a machine who would like to dub a copy while a film is in progress, please see me.

Special thanks to Bill Swallow for use of his VCR.

The showing of ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW will be SILENT, as half of us have no idea of what is going on. Anyone not adhering to this will be ejected.

OTHER NOTES:

Copies of last year's PgHLANGE Portfolio, featuring 20 original works by Rick Sternbach and Phil Foglio, are still available. A limited edition (300) numbered and signed by the artists. All prints are offset on heavy and/or textured paper, suitable for framing. I have 30 copies left, at $12.50 each. (no profit in this; I'm just trying to break even from last year.)

As stated in the flyer, a hotel banquet was deemed too expensive. ($13.95 for a buffet!) Please sign up on the board in the con suite as to where you would like to eat Saturday; if you have a car, how many you can carry. The center is only 5 minutes away.

Due to a change in management, causing the hotel to charge me for function space, combined with my massive paranoia of no one being able to afford the con after Seacon/Northamericon, we are in smaller function rooms this year than last. Don't think of it as being crowded, just a lot friendlier.
