All rights reserved for the contributors. One thousand copies have been printed by Beechmont Press, Inc., Louisville, Kentucky. Additional copies are available for sale for $3.00 each. RiverCon is a non-profit, all-volunteer organization dedicated to the promotion of science fiction and sf fandom.

Once again, we welcome you to RiverCon, a simple gathering of eight or nine hundred of your close friends. Enjoy yourselves, relax, revel in our shared interest, even passion, for all things science-fictional.

With only three more RiverCons to go (yes, the rumors are true; see our letter on page 27), we want everyone to have the best experience possible. So let us know if there's anything we can do to make your weekend more pleasant, and please come back next year (and the year after!).

BADGES

Everyone: PLEASE WEAR YOUR RIVERCON MEM-

BERSHIP BADGE! Any time you are in a convention area of the hotel, please wear your badge in a conspicuous place. Not only does this have the obvious benefit of identifying you to other convention members, but you will be refused admission to certain areas and activities if you are not wearing your badge. Plus, the easier it is to see your badge the less likely the convention staff is to stop and ask if you're a RiverCon member. Try not to lose your badge, either; the cost for a replacement is $25.00. Membership badges remain the property of RiverCon during the course of the convention. RiverCon reserves the right to refuse memberships to, or revoke from, persons who engage in disorderly, disruptive, or unlawful behavior at the convention.

HOSPITALITY SUITES

The RiverCon Hospitality Suites are located in Rooms 272 (non-smoking) and 472 (smoking). They are open throughout the convention for your enjoyment. An assortment of munchies is usually available, but please remember we do not provide meals. Don't forget that RiverCon serves only non-alcoholic drinks in the hospitality suites. (A reminder to party hosts: Kentucky's legal drinking age is 21, and you are responsible for your guests' behavior.)

CONVENTION NEWSLETTER To keep you informed of any last-minute news, not to mention party reports and idle gossip, we'll be publishing daily issues of The Riverboat Packet. If you have any news you'd like included in the newsletter, leave it in the container marked for it at the volunteers and information desk, which is located at the west end of the hallway opposite the Mary Room. Deadline for each morning's issue is 9:00 p.m. the previous evening.

INFORMATION TABLES

Electrical Eggs will again have representatives at River-Con in the hucksters room, where they will have for sale various EE-related merchandise to support their valuable efforts. If you need any type of access services at River-Con, please see them, and they will help to arrange it.

Representatives of several Worldcons and future convention bidders will be at tables down the hallway from the registration area. They will be happy to provide you with all the information you need in order to make an informed choice in site selection voting. We urge you to take advantage of their expertise. Some of them have advertisements in these pages with information about their bids.

The Southern Fandom Confederation will be there, too, to offer information and take memberships (see their ad on page 24 of this program book).

BABYSITTING

RiverCon's babysitting is staffed by licensed, professional sitters. The hours of operation are listed in your pocket program schedule. This service is free of charge for all children holding RiverCon memberships. Children left at the service must be picked up by closing time (no exceptions) and will be turned over only to a parent or legal guardian or to persons designated in writing by the parent (again, no exceptions).

CHILDREN MEMBERS

As a reminder to parents, we'd like to ask you that you carefully monitor your children's behavior. If a committee member observes a child seriously misbehaving to the extent that the child is endangering him- or herself or others, or is damaging hotel property, then that child's membership badge will be taken and must then be claimed by the parent at the volunteer desk. If this happens a third time, the child's membership will be revoked and he or she must be removed from the convention area of the hotel.

RIVERCON ONLINE

More and more of you are communicating by computers and e-mail (we are science fiction fans, after all), and RiverCon wants to be able to stay in touch. For the last few years, we've had an e-mail address (RiverConSF@aol.com), and we're pleased to say a lot of you have used it to write to us. We also have a home page on the World Wide Web (http://members.aol.com/raroehm/rivercon.html) where we've put complete RiverCon information.

For example, you were able to take a look at our program and video schedule several days before the start of the con. Complete information for the art show, masquerade, program book advertising, and gaming room was also available. Links to the Executive West Hotel, Louisville International Airport, and a Louisville restaurant guide provided useful information that would have been impossible to mail to each member. Please let us know if you found the site helpful and what you'd like to see there next year.

WEAPONS

Weapons, either real or realistically simulated, may not be worn or carried in the convention areas of the hotel (and we strongly discourage wearing them outside the hotel, too). Dealers may sell weapons in the Huckster's Room provided that they are wrapped securely for removal from the room. Absolutely no demonstrations of weapons in the Huckster Room aisles are allowed.

Weapons may be worn or carried during the hours of the masquerade Saturday night (approximately 9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m..) if part of a stage costume or bona fide hall costume. This exception applies only to the masquerade time period and only to those in full costume. However, please exercise extreme caution at all times when navigating crowded hallways, stairways, and elevators. We ask you to refrain from wearing weapons in the main lobby area at all times.

THANK YOU

Just take a look at the list on the right and you'll see that it takes a lot of people to put on a convention like RiverCon. The committee would like to offer its sincerest appreciation to everyone whose name is listed, as well as the dozens of others who volunteered later. We couldn't have done it without each and every one of you. RiverCon Committee & Staff

A Note on Historical Sources

In recognition of our guest of honor, we've taken an historical theme this year. You'll find sprinkled throughout this program book scenes that capture Louisville as it was during the two centuries. Our primary source for the drawings and descriptions was Kentucky Illustrated: The First Hundred Years by Martin F. Schmidt (The University Press of Kentucky, 1992). Other interesting and useful books wereViews of Louisville Since 1766 edited by Samuel W. Thomas (The Louisville Courier-Jornal, 1971), and 200 Years at the Falls of the Ohio by George H. Yater (Filson Club, 1987).

"I am probably one of the few writers to have both his pen name and his own name foisted on him!"

--Harry Turtledove (a.k.a. Eric G. Iverson)

Since 1984 WHEN HARRY TURTLEDOVE THREW OFF the mantle of Eric G. Iverson, his name has been associated with alternate history. Although many of his early alternate history works have been collected in A Different Flesh and Agent of Byzantium, two fix-up novels, he didn't publish his first alternate history novel as such until 1992 when he introduced time-traveling South Africans to the Confederacy, complete with AK-47s. Since then, Harry has re-written World War II (with an alien invasion) and is currently re-writing World War I (in which series he does major damage to Louisville).

A trained historian with a Ph.D. in Byzantine history, Harry traces his own interest in both writing science fiction and studying history to one of the first alternate histories written within the science fictional field, L. Sprague de Camp's Lest Darkness Fall. Without having read this book, Harry points out he may never have become interested in history, never become a successful author and never met his wife, author Laura Frankos, who he met at UCLA.

Harry points to the skills he learned as an historian when explaining how he can write books with such believable historical settings as the "World War" series or "The Great War". However, his knowledge of Byzantine and Roman history recurs throughout his writing, from his earliest short stories to his fantasy novels. In 1987, Harry published the four books of the "Videssos Cycle" as well as Agent of Byzantium. The last book obviously draws on his training. The "Videssos Cycle" took the common sf theme of sending someone from one world to another. Harry's twist was to send a Roman legion from the late Republic through to a world which was Byzantium with some magic mixed in. Six more novels set in Videssos have followed, with a seventh due out in August.

Harry has a tendency to fill all his novels, his fantasy, science fiction and alternate histories, with in-jokes for those who are historically astute. A good example of this type of humor can be found in Thessalonica. For those who miss the importance of the main characters' names, Harry includes some explanatory puns at the beginning of Chapter X. Although much of the humor in his books is subtle, Harry can also be pretty blatant. His The Case of the Toxic Spell Dump is a collection of pun after pun, tied together by plot.

Similarly, he uses analogs from history in many of his novels. A recent online discussion tried to pinpoint where all the place-names in the Videssos series originated. Other conversations have tried to link Harry's various fantasy characters to their historical counterparts.

If you read the author blurbs on Harry's novels, you'll discover he has lived in Southern California his entire life. This, however, doesn't begin to tell the story. While a native Angelenos may be rare, Harry and Laura live in the house Laura grew up in—a fact which, I have a feeling, sets them apart from the vast majority of people in the United States at the end of the twentieth century. Being a lifelong Chicagoan, I am also amazed that Harry has only seen snowfall twice in his life.

In spite of his lack of experience with snow, Harry's novels are noted for their sense of place and also for their deep characterization. Many characters live in the minds of his readers long after the books are finished. I envy anyone who hasn't read Harry Turtledove's novels because they have the opportunity to discover his writing for the very first time.

Steven H Silver is a Quality Assurance Analyst with Ameritech. He hold's a Master's degree in Medieval History from Indiana University, and he is the founder and judge of the Sidewise Awards for Alternate History. In his spare (!) time, he writes book reviews for his own extensive web site (http://www.sfsite.com/~silverag/), sfsite.com, BookPage, and the New York Review of Science Fiction. His is also the Hugo Administrator for Chicon 2000. And finally, he recently became the proud papa of Robin Batya Silver (well, Elaine helped...).

Opposite page: This illustration shows Gilbert Imlay's 1793 plan of the rapids of the Ohio, which evolved into a sort of bird's-eye view when he added trees and houses in "Clarkville" and along three streets of Louisville. Still, since the federal census of 1790 enumerated only 200 people in Louisville, Imlay's houses may have come close to an accurate representation of the village. (However, since this was only a projected plan and not an actual map, this view must fall into the "alternate history" category.) Copper engraving from Imlay's Topographical Description of the Western Territory of North America, 1793.

More than 1500 industrial and commercial displays packed the building, which covered ten acres between Fourth and Sixth Streets, the present site of St. James Court. Just to the north, the intown estate of Antoine du Pont, known as du Pont Square, served as the midway and park, the site of the art gallery, and later Louisville's Central Park. Attendance totaled more than 770,000 people through the closing date in early November. Wood engraving from the Louisville Board of Trade's The City of Louisville and a Glimpse of Kentucky, 1887.

VE KNOWN CHRIS TATE FOR OVER HALF MY LIFE. I DON'T know if that makes me qualified to write about him, but it certainly means that I've got at least a couple of great stories. Like the time that he was at Kubla Khan, and bought panties for my girlfriend. Or filmed tribbles eating popcorn (using stop-motion animation) at a Star Trek convention. Or, at his bachelor party... oh, no, wait... I probably shouldn't tell that one here.

I haven't known Julee Johnson-Tate quite as long as I've known Chris, but she has that unique ability to make you feel like you've known her forever. That said, writing about some of my best friends for one of my favorite conventions is a scary proposition.

One of the first things you'd notice about Chris and Julee is that they're a team. When they decide to do something, they do it together. Not to say that they behave as if joined at the hip; rather, they seem to have an almost symbiotic coexistence that most couples strive for, and few achieve.

Chris seems at first to be the more impetuous of the two, but it's only after you get to know both Chris and Julee that you realize that deep inside, Chris is the major worrier who will hold back, and that Julee is more often the one who will jump on a new idea with both feet.

Chris' roots in fandom go back to 1976, when he was one of the organizers of the Iotian Assemblage, a precursor to the Evansville Science Fiction Association. A first meeting, to which the public was invited, was held in a meeting room at the YMCA to gauge local interest in a Star Trek fan club. Over 200 people attended that first meeting, including the current Chief Justice of the Indiana Supreme Court, and a young woman from southern Illinois named Julee Johnson. But I'm getting ahead of myself.

In 1982, Chris organized a one-day convention in Evansville, Minicon, primarily because of the nay-sayers in our SF club who said it couldn't be done. Nobody died, and nobody went broke, and so the next year a three-day event was held, named Contact. This year's convention, Contact 16, will bring the total conventions Chris has chaired (or co-chaired with Julee) to five. Always the cheapskate, Chris says the best thing about being FGoH is not paying for a membership or a hotel room. When Steve and Sue Francis asked Chris and Julee about being RiverCon FGoHs during the Great Concave Blackout of 1997, Chris wondered if they were asking the people they had intended to. He wasn't going to say anything, however, as he figured that they'd back out, and he'd be back having to pay for memberships to RiverCon.

Julee's first convention was the 1986 Atlanta worldcon, where she had gone to get Ray Bradbury's autograph. She met Sue Francis by volunteering to work at the gopher hole. That year, Sue inadvertently became a temporary client of the Handicap Access department, and was getting around the con on crutches, and then a "mobie" electric wheelchair. Julee was accompanying Sue across a busy street in Atlanta when the power plug on Sue's mobie came loose, stopping Sue dead in the middle of traffic. Julee later told me that she'd been having a wonderful time up to that point, and had been planning on attending more cons. Now she worried that she'd be blacklisted from conventions for letting her department head get run over. Since they got the mobie running again, Julee never had to find out.

Although she had been at the first attempt at Evansville fandom in 1976, Julee doesn't really remember meeting Chris until Contact in 1986, which she was attending in order to interview Timothy Zahn for the BDalton bookstore SF club newsletter.

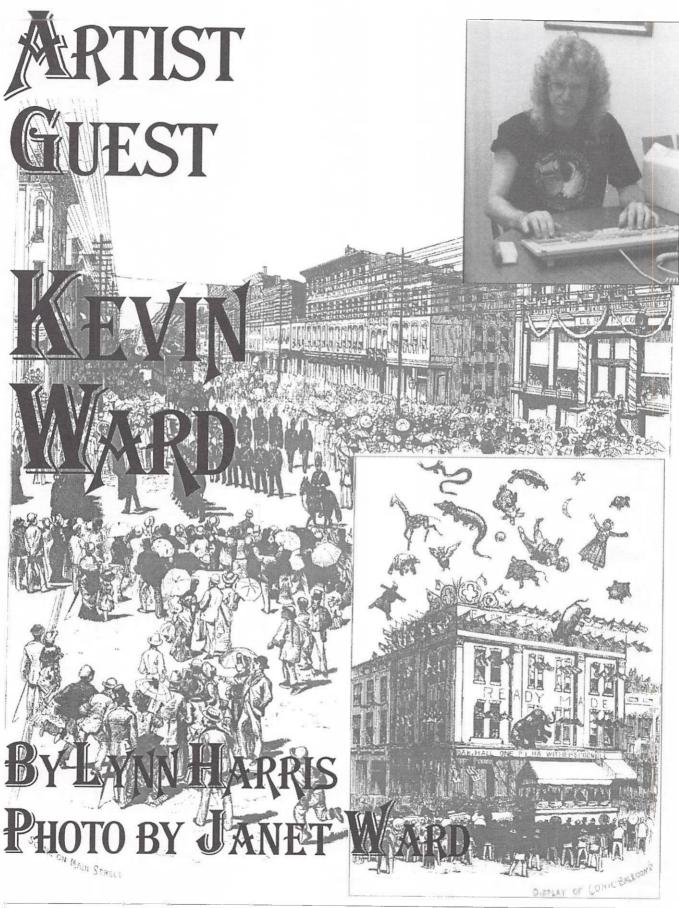

Julee is trying to raise room parties to a higher art form. While she feels she's not on a level with Naomi Fisher, she's working on it. Julee has become a demon about organization and effective packing of party supplies. As she put it recently, she'd rather know what she needs and what she's got going TO the con, rather that wasting time trying to figure it out AT the con.

When asked about their impressions of fandom today, Chris and Julee freely admit that they don't usually attend panels unless they're on them. Chris also feels that media fans are having a larger impact every year, and the number of fans who are "book fans" instead of primarily media fans is shrinking. Chris doesn't necessarily see this as a bad trend in fandom, just a fact of life. In fact, Chris points out that if he were born 10 years later, he doesn't know if he'd be such an avid reader, as more SF has become available in the mainstream media. Julee feels the internet is helping to kill cons in general. Chris and Julee both feel that fandom is a second family, and that the reason cons survive (or don't) is based more on who of your long-distance friends you can see at a con, and less who the guests are. That said, I'll bet Chris wouldn't turn down another stint at being FGoH. He IS a cheapskate, after all.

Other miscellenous factoids about Chris and Julee: They are owned by two cats, they have a videotape collection covering one whole wall in their living room, and one entire room of nothing but books. And by the time Chris finally gets around to building enough shelves for the books they've got, they'll need a second room. Chris' more mundane hobbies include motorcycles, golf, music, and the Miami Dolphins; while Julee's are cross-stitch and collecting boxes (painted boxes, not moving boxes); and they've been running the SF Jeopardy game here at Rivercon for the last three years.

Oh, and as for the story about buying panties at Kubla Khan for the woman whose went from being my girlfriend to wife, to evolve to ex-wife? I'll let him tell it. I should leave SOMETHING for him to talk about.

Jeff Lockridge is a native Evansvillian and a former chair of Contact, and he currently writes a regular column for the ESFA Newsletter. Jeff, a longtime RiverCon member, has worked in several departments, and also has worked on the dealers room staffs of a number of worldcons.

T AGE 3, KEVIN STARTED DRAWING dinosaurs because there were not enough pictures of them (they had only recently become extinct). Many years later, in 1981, he was first published in Future Life Magazine after attending his very first convention, Kubla Khan 8. He spent the majority of the eighties as a semiprofessional in the group of artists that came to be known as the "Tennessee Artists Mafia". He is probably best known during this time for his paintings of aliens and their worlds.

In the mid-eighties, he landed his first paperback cover for Baen Books. There followed a series of paperback, hardback, and magazine covers in Europe, most in Germany, one even in the now nonexistent Yugoslavia. The dream of a lifetime came true when he got to illustrate an article about extraterrestrial intelligence for the Grolier Science Annual Encyclopedia 1991. He had come full circle, having grown up reading and admiring the artwork in any set of encyclopedias he could find.

In 1989 he innocently submitted a black and white painting for a small TSR publication, Polyhedron. Its editor, Jean Rabe, showed it enthusiastically around TSR's offices. This led to a long-term relationship with TSR in which Kevin did covers and interiors for Dragon Magazine and Dungeon Magazine, as well as game modules and trading cards. He soon began to feel typecast as a gaming artist and missed the days when he could paint whatever he wanted. He was nevertheless thrilled to get the dream assignment of illustrating Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings through Iron Crown Enterprises' Middle Earth collectable card games. He has since illustrated other collectable card games, including Legend of the Five Rings, Dragon Storm, and others.

During this time of being a gaming artist he switched hats and became a technical artist as well. He was given two chance-of-a-lifetime assignments, illustrating brochures for NASA shuttle missions, the United States Micro-gravity Lab 1 (the first all U.S. Spacelab mission), and Micro-gravity Science Lab 1 (a Bridge to Space Station Freedom). The crowning glory of these assignments was an invitation to sit in the VIP viewing area for Space Shuttle Columbia's launch of the fiftieth shuttle mission.

When his wife Janet went back to college to change careers, Kevin took a two-year hiatus from painting, having become disillusioned with the business side of illustration. Currently he is breaking back into painting, this time aiming more toward the science fiction he really loves, envisioning the strange places only he can imagine and making them real for the viewer. He is not actively pursuing illustration assignments because he noticed his work looked far more moving when he was painting only his own vision, telling only his own stories.

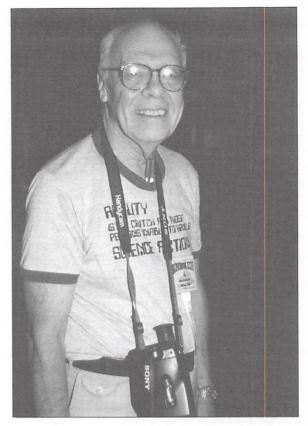

His current project is a studio/gallery he has opened with me in Nashville where we hope to show both our own work and that of other science fiction illustrators and fine artists. Kevin and Janet have been the best friends another human could have. When Kevin is not fighting "the imposter syndrome," he fulfills the highest purpose of an artist. Art will always be with us because something in the human spirit seeks it. Kevin's vision and stories never disappoint.

Lynn Harris is a longtime RiverCon committee member. She has managed RiverCon's Art Show since 1983 and currently lives in Nashville where her newest venture is the above-mentioned studio/gallery. Lynn has worked hard lately to overcome her convention reputation as a traveling shoe store and appliance shop.

Animal balloons were liberated on Main Street, and the day ended with a blaze of fireworks from flatboats anchored in the river. TOAST-MASTER

HO IS HAL CLEMENT? WHY, YOU MAY WONDER, need one ask? Everyone knows who Hal Clement the SF writer is. But do you know George Richards the artist, or Harry Stubbs the fan?

Everyone knows Hal Clement the SF writer: The man who wrote Mission of Gravity (in my opinion one of the most perfect hard SF novels ever written). That same Hal Clement wrote books like Close to Critical, a wonderfully realized alien environment; or Needle, an SF detective story.

Hal is a relentlessly logical person and delights in making sense of the most apparently illogical situations. His novel Still River is his answer to the challenge of making sense of Journey to the Center of the Earth: How could it really be possible for there to be a planet with caverns reaching to its center? He also famous for doing great program items on making a consistent story out of Star Trek's patchwork of science and technology.

And let's not forget his short fiction! "Uncommon Sense," a wonderful problem story (and, again, I think Hal Clement has written one of the best ever), won the Retro-Hugo for the best short story of 1951. A man is trapped outside his spaceship by the Bad Guys on a hot, airless Mercury-like planet that, nevertheless, has life. His problem is to turn the tables on the villains before his air runs out. Since he's an inquisitive person, he can thelp wondering the how there can be living beings in this environment, and it is his solution to that puzzle which gains him victory over the mutineers. The science is superb and the story is short, well-written and to the point. (Any of these characteristics are uncommon; all together is rare.)

I could go on at length and I plan to, but not here. Tony Lewis and I are editing a three-volume set of Hal Clement's stories and novels which NESFA Press will bring out over the next two years.

Then there's Harry Stubbs, life-long SF fan, father and grandfather, and high school science teacher (retired). Harry Clement Stubbs selected his pen name while he was working on his Master's degree in Astronomy at Harvard. He was afraid his thesis advisor, Prof. Donald H. Menzel, wouldn't approve of science fiction. (Ironically, if an index to the SF magazines had existed at that time, Harry would have learned that Menzel had contributed to Hugo Gernsback's Amazing Stories.) Harry was a weatherman for the Army Air Force in WW II and flew bomber missions over Germany: he learned to fly before he learned to drive, and tells the story of learning to drive after the war and having a strong urge to pull back on the steering wheel and go over oncoming traffic.

And he's a fan: he was Treasurer of Noreascon, the Worldcon in Boston in 1971, but was thrown off the committee. According to Tony Lewis (Chairman of the first Noreascon), when the Hal Clement novel Starlight was nominated for the Hugo, Harry tried to decline the honor on the grounds that it would be unseemly for a committee member's story to be on the ballot. The committee refused to let him sacrifice his Hugo nomination and arranged for another Treasurer.

And then there's George Richards, his least-known aspect, who is a gifted amateur SF artist. George Richards does primarily astronomical art and takes particular care that it be 100% correct as well as beautiful. Harry/Hal/George has been known to attend conventions wearing all three hats, and to use his art to illustrate his science talks.

But never forget the person behind all three names. My wife tells of meeting Hal Clement at her first convention. It was the 1969 Philcon and she, a freshman in college for just two months, had swiped a weekend's worth of sandwiches from the cafeteria and headed off to her first convention. It was overwhelming and on Saturday morning she found herself sitting in a corridor outside the Huckster's Room with a huge pile of books and a big smile on her face. A friendly, middle-aged man wandered by and greeted her with, "This is your first convention, isn't it?" They talked and she realized that this was Hal Clement the writer who'd stopped to chat with her and make her feel welcome.

So here's Hal Clement, fan, writer, artist—and great person!

Mark L. Olson has been an active member of Boston fandom for many, many years. He chaired Noreascon III, the 1989 and is currently associated with the Orlando in 2001 bid.

Glen worked in the automotive industry for many years, and now finds time to be a bookseller at several conventions every year, which is why you'll find him in the dealer's room most of the time at RiverCon.

Buck & Juanita Coulson hold a special place in RiverCon history, as they were our first fan guests of honor. Publishers of the long-running and Hugowinning fanzine Yandro, the Coulsons have each written several sf and fantasy novels (plus a few nongenre items). Buck has been a prolific book reviewer, and Juanita is one of our most accomplished filksingers. When not on a convention program or in the filk room, you'll find them in the hucksters room with a fine selection of recordings and books. The Coulsons live in upstate Indiana.

Lori and David Deitrick are artists from Knoxville. David has done 100+ covers for Skybox Cards, WaldenBooks, GDW, Iron Crown Enterprises, and Aboriginal. Although better known for her portraiture, Lori has also illustrated for Aboriginal and Amazing Stories. Both have worked on the Middle Earth Collectible Card Game from Iron Crown. Laura Frankos, besides being married to Harry Turtledove, is the author of one mystery novel, St. Oswald's Niche, with another on the way. R. Neube began his professional writing career by ghosting college term papers. He grew up in the Appalachian area of Kentucky and currently lives near the Ohio River. One of his novels won half the gold prize in the University of Catalonia (Barcelona) Science Fiction Competion. (But Mike Resnick won the other half, so we can claim the whole thing on behalf of RiverCon!) Another novel has been published in Poland, and his short fiction is appearing with greater frequency, most recently in Asimov's. Ryck is currently vice-president of the Cincinnati Writers Project.

Jack Nimersheim is the author of two dozen books in the computer field (e.g., In Plain English: Microsoft Word for Windows 6.0, Windows 95: Explanations You Can Use and Understand, etc.), and he has published over 20 short stories in a number of anthologies, including Alternate Presidents, Secret Prophecies of

The Down Under Fan Fund

Since 1972, the Down Under Fan Fund, or DUFF for short, has promoted closer ties between fans in Australia and North America through an alternating exchange of delegates. DUFF—like TAFF, its cross-Atlantic counterpart—is supported by voluntary contributions from fans all over the world who vote in the elections and who donate money and material for benefit auctions. Past DUFF winners include RiverCon regulars Rusty Hevelin (1975), Leah & Dick Smith (1993), and Pat & Roger Sims (1995), all of whom attended conventions in Australia.

This year, RiverCon is proud to welcome Terry Frost, who traveled from Australia to attend the WorldCon in Baltimore as the DUFF representative. Terry, one of Australia's outstanding fan writers and editors, said he is stopping by RiverCon on his way to Bucconeer because he always wanted to visit Hunter Thompson's birthplace. If you invite him out to dinner, don't suggest that you go to the Outback Steak House.

Nostradamus, Sherlock Holmes in Orbit, Alternate Outlaws, and Alternate Tyrants. A collection of his stories, Graffiti from the Subways of My Mind, was just published by Alexander Books.

Mike Resnick has been nominated for more awards all over the world than anyone we know.(And he's won more than a few, too.) Mike has also edited quite a number of original SF anthologies, among them Alternate Presidents, Alternate Kennedys, and Alternate Tyrants, and many others. The Widowmaker Reborn, sequel to The Widowmaker, was published last year by Bantam Books, to be followed by The Widowmaker Unleashed later this year. A collected edition of Mike's acclaimed Kirinyaga stories was recently published by Del Rey. And just out is A Hunger in the Soul (Tor). Mike also finds time to edit the Library of African Adventure for Alexander Books. (We highly recommend Laura Resnick's A Blonde in Africa.)

Paula Robinson made her first sale to Dimension Z comics in 1985, along with her husband-to-be, artist Rick McCollum. Paula attended the 1988 Clarion workshop, and started selling stories professionally shortly thereafter. She's had about a dozen stories in Analog, the most recent about a severely goofy race of aliens known as the Segoori. She has a new short story in Infinite Realities.

Christopher Rowe is a new writer of the homegrown variety. He's a graduate of Clarion West and worked at Hawley-Cooke Booksellers until recently moving to Michigan. His most recent story, "Kin to Crows," is in the current Realms of Fantasy.

Ron Sarti is the author of The Chronickes of Scar. Book two of the series, Legacy of the Ancients, was published last year, and the third, The Lanterns of God is due in next month from Avon Eos. Ron, a Vietnam veteran, draws upon his knowledge of military history to add realism to his writing. He lives in Dayton with his wife annd children.

Lisa S. Silverthorne has published several stories in Marion Zimmer Bradley's Fantasy Magazine, Galaxy, Sirius Visions, F&SF, and original anthologies such as Swords & Sorceress XII, Blood Muse, 365 Science Fiction Short Short Stories and Bending the Landscape: Fantasy. She holds degrees in Industrial Technology, Journalism, and Educational Computing and Industrial Design. She is a microcomputer support coordinator for the Purdue University library system.

Diann Thornley's first SF novel, Ganwold's Child (Tor, 1995), is the story of a military family caught in the political maneuverings of interstellar warfare. Two sequels, Echoes of Issel and Dominion's Reach, subsequently were published last year. She is currently working on the fourth book in the series, entitled Manstalker. An officer in the Air Force, Diann lives in Xenia, Ohio, and recently returned from a tour in Bosnia.

Michael Williams is the author of several books in the Dragonlance series, some of which also include his poetry, among them Weasel's Luck and Galen Beknighted, and three books in the From Thief to King series. His most recent works are Arcady and its sequel Allamanda (both published by Roc), which have a background based on the mythology of William Blake. Michael lives in Louisville, where he teaches writing at the University of Louisville.

RIVERCON ART AUCTION BIDDING GUIDELINES

1. All prospective bidders must register in advance in the art show. This is for purposes of identification and to insure that the bidder is a RiverCon member.

2. The art auction is late Saturday evening in the King Room. Please check your program book for the exact time of the auction.

3. A piece must have three or more bids to be included in the auction.

4. All bidding must be in increments of $1.00 or more. We will not change your bid to another piece after the auction, and we will not cancel a bid once the auction has begun. Be sure of what you are doing and what you want when you bid. If a piece on which you have placed a written bid does not receive a third bid, and thus does not go to the auction, it is yours at the final bid price. RiverCon and the auctioneer reserve the right to set minimum bid increments during the auction.

5. Most pieces in the art show will have an immediate purchase price at which you can buy the item before it has any bids. Once a piece has one or more bids, however, even if the highest is less than the immediate purchase price, it cannot be bought for the immediate purchase price.

6. The RiverCon art show respects the wishes of the artists for after-auction (Sunday) sales. Some artists will sell on Sunday, usually for the immediate purchase price; others choose not to do so. Please check with the art show staff at the front desk Sunday morning for the prices on pieces you are interested in.

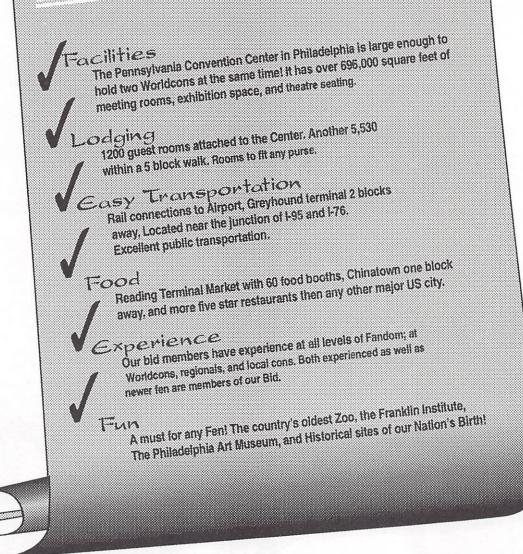

7. When you bid on an item, you need to check to see if it will be going to auction (i.e., does it have three or more bids). If the piece you have bid on is going to be auctioned, you need to be present to defend your bid. We cannot determine in advance the order in which pieces will be put up for sale, so it is a good idea to have a friend represent you with your bidding instructions if you are unable to attend the entire auction.

8. We will honor personal checks with proper identification, traveler's checks, Visa, Master Card or cash. Please note that on credit card puchases there will be an additional 5% surcharge.

9. If art is not picked up and paid for between 10:00 a.m. and noon on Sunday, the piece will be returned to the artist as unsold

10. We strive to make the RiverCon Art Show enjoyable for everyone, both the artists exhibiting and other convention members. If you have questions or need additional information, please don't hesitate to ask the art show staff.

And most important ... You!

O LAURA

REYNO

A Statement About the Future of RiverCon

s THE END OF THE MILLENNIUM APPROACHES, we have decided to retire RiverCon, Louisville's annual science fiction and fantasy convention, after the 25th convention in the year 2000.

After much consideration, this decision was based on two main factors. The first, and foremost, was that we do not wish to continue running RiverCon beyond that time when we can do it with enthusiasm and fresh ideas. We want RiverCon to end on a high note as a successful and enjoyable convention, not only for the members but also for those running it as well.

The second factor relates to our committee members. We have enjoyed an association with a fine group of talented and dedicated people who have been working on and supporting RiverCon for many years. However, it is obvious that this same group of people cannot continue to run RiverCon indefinitely. Replacing retiring committee members, department heads, and even staff has become increasingly difficult. By establishing an ending date, we have hopefully provided that "light at the end of the tunnel" that will give all our committee members (and ourselves!) the incentive to stay with RiverCon through the very last one.

The RiverCon name and distinctive logo will be retired with the convention. The names "RiverCon" and "NorthAmeriCon" are service marks of the Louisville Science Fiction Association, Inc., and cannot be used without the express written permission of the Association's Board of Directors.

Any group that wishes to begin a new SF convention in Louisville does so with our best wishes. If asked, we will be happy to offer any advice, wisdom, and guidance our cummulative decades have given us. We want to make it clear, however, that any new Louisville SF convention will be completely independent of RiverCon and its present committee, even if there is an overlap of individual members.

We sincerely hope that the many people who have attended and enjoyed RiverCon over the years will continue to do so through the year 2000. We and the RiverCon committee offer our thanks and appreciation to all those who have given us their support and enriched our lives since RiverCon began its long voyage way back in 1975.

For the future, we invite you to attend RiverCon XXIV, July 30 - Aug. 1, 1999; and finally, RiverCon XXV, July 28 - 30, 2000.

Steve and Sue Francis, RiverCon Co-Chairs July 31, 1998

ouisville's Annual Science Fiction & Fantasy Convention

RIVERCON

July 28 - 30, 2000 Louisville, Kentucky

The RiverCon XXV Program Book is copyright © 2000 by the Louisville Science Fiction Assn., Inc., P.O. Box 58009, Louisville, KY 40268-0009. WWW: http://members.aol.com/rivercon. E-mail: RiverConSF@aol.com. Edited by Bob Roehm. Cover painting by Paul Lehr. All rights reserved for the contributors. 1100 copies have been printed by Beechmont Press, Inc., Louisville, Kentucky. RiverCon is a non-profit, all-volunteer organization dedicated to the promotion of science fiction and sf fandom.

OR THE VERY LAST TIME, we welcome you to RiverCon, Louisville's annual science fiction and fantasy convention. Enjoy yourselves, relax, revel in our shared interest—even passion—for all things sciencefictional. We promise a weekend filled with wonder and excitement as we embark on our last voyage.

Here we are in the future, the 21st Century (and the chronopurists among you can just sit down and shut up). Even though we science fiction fans have lived in the future all our lives, we're sure that few of us at that first RiverCon ever thought we'd still be here a quarter-century later. But indeed here we are, and now we are saying goodbye. It is of course said with a certain amount of sadness, but at the same time we are confident that this is the right thing to do. Many of the reasons for retiring RiverCon were explained in our announcement three years ago; that letter is reprinted on page 27.

Perhaps there will be some tears this weekend, but we want there to be just as much laughter. This is meant to be a joyful, happy occasion, and not a sorrowful one, so go out and have some fun!

And now, on to the future! (But we'd still like to know, just where are the flying cars?)

Badges

Everyone: PLEASE WEAR YOUR RIVERCON MEM-BERSHIP BADGE! Any time you are in a convention area of the hotel, please wear your badge in a conspicuous place. Not only does this have the obvious benefit of identifying you to other convention members, but you will be refused admission to certain areas and activities if you are not wearing your badge. Plus, the easier it is to see your badge the less likely the convention staff is to stop and ask if you're a RiverCon member. Try not to lose your badge, either; the cost for a replacement is $25.00. Membership badges remain the property of RiverCon during the course of the convention. RiverCon reserves the right to refuse memberships to, or revoke from, persons who engage in disorderly, disruptive, or unlawful behavior at the convention.

Hospitality Suites

The RiverCon Hospitality Suites are located in Rooms 272 (non-smoking) and 475 (smoking). They are open throughout the convention for your enjoyment. An assortment of munchies is usually available, but please remember we do not provide meals. Don't forget that RiverCon serves only nonalcoholic drinks in the hospitality suites. (A reminder to party hosts: Kentucky's legal drinking age is 21, and you are responsible for your guests' behavior.)

Convention Newsletter

To keep you informed of any last-minute news, not to mention party reports and idle gossip, we'll be publishing daily issues of The Riverboat Packet. If you have any news you'd like included in the newsletter, leave it in the container marked for it at the volunteers and information desk, which is located at the west end of the hallway opposite the Mary Room. Deadline for each morning's issue is 9:00 p.m. the previous evening.

Information Tables

Representatives of some upcoming Worldcons and future convention bidders are expected to be at tables along the hallway near the registration area. They will be happy to provide you with all the information you need in order to make an informed choice in site selection voting. We urge you to take advantage of their expertise.

The Southern Fandom Confederation will be there, too, to offer information and take memberships (see their ad on page 26 of this program book).

Babysitting

RiverCon's babysitting is staffed by licensed, professional sitters. The hours of operation are listed in your pocket program schedule. This service is free of charge for all children holding RiverCon memberships. Children left at the service must be picked up by closing time (no exceptions) and will be turned over only to a parent or legal guardian or to persons designated in writing by the parent (again, no exceptions).

Children Members

As a reminder to parents, we'd like to ask you that you carefully monitor your children's behavior. If a committee member observes a child seriously misbehaving to the extent that the child is endangering him- or herself or others, or is damaging hotel property, then that child's membership badge will be taken and must then be claimed by the parent at the volunteer desk. If this happens a third time, the child's membership will be revoked and he or she must be removed from the convention area of the hotel.

Weapons

Weapons, either real or realistically simulated, may not be worn or carried in the convention areas of the hotel (and we strongly discourage wearing them outside the hotel, too). Dealers may sell weapons in the Huckster's Room provided that they are wrapped securely for removal from the room. Absolutely no demonstrations of weapons in the Huckster Room aisles are allowed.

Weapons may be worn or carried during the hours of the masquerade Saturday night (approximately 9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.) if part of a stage costume or bona fide hall costume. This exception applies only to the masquerade time period and only to those in full costume. However, please exercise extreme caution at all times when navigating crowded hallways, stairways, and elevators. We ask you to refrain from wearing weapons in the main lobby area at all times.

Thank You

Just take a look at the list on the right and you'll see that it takes a lot of people to put on a convention like RiverCon. The committee would like to offer its sincerest appreciation to everyone whose name is listed, as well as the dozens of others who volunteered later. We couldn't have done it without each and every one of you.

About the Artwork

The cover painting is a preliminary sketch that the late Paul Lehr made as one possibility for his 1994 RiverCon program book cover. He ultimately decided on a radically different design, and so this one was never published. We are grateful to Paula Lehr for permission to present this version as a memorial to her husband, one of the finest artists ever to work in the SF field.

The title page and department headings incorporate the original RiverCon '75 program book cover as drawn by Don Rosa.

* Larry Niven was unable to attend due to illness, and Gordon Dickson substituted. Mr. Niven attended the following RiverCon.  Formerly Stouffer's Louisville Inn. Cliff Amos chaired RiverCon I - VII; Steve and Sue Francis have co-chaired RiverCon since VIII.

For this last RiverCon, we thought we'd turn the tables a bit and ask our past guests, whether attending or not, to offer their reminiscences of RiverCon. The responses was, to say the least, gratifying. We can't thank you enough for sharing so many happy memories. Here are some of the responses:

Andrew J. Offutt Toartmarter, 1975, 1995 Guest of Honor, 1984

It hasn't really been 24-now 25-has it?

Let's see...maybe so. I remember one night at a longago Kubla Khan (it was about the tme the President was murdered; they got that S.O.B. John Wilkes Booth, didn't they?) Cliff Amos asked to meet me for breakfast. Naturally I had to tell him that breakfast is not something I do at cons, since every night I try to do my duty to reduce this nation's shocking beer surplus, & that takes hours & hours.

We agreed that we would meet at c. 11:30 in the hotel restaurant for brunch.

With Cliff when Jodie & I arrived was Donna Neslund from Tennessee, and well, I hain't fer certain but Bob Roehm thinks he was there too. Since I was only 25 or so at the time, he must have been about 10. Jodie and I as usual were a cheap date, & in time we came to the purpose for this meeting.

In non-direct quotes Cliff said, We're going to put on a sf con in Louisville. We are calling it RiverCon, since Louisville exists because of the river, & we'll be honoring Philip José Farmer, author of the wonderful Riverworld novels (my adjective). "Uncle Andy," Cliff went on, and this is DQ for direct quotes, "what would it take to get you to be our toastmaster?" (He might have said "Master of Ceremonies" or even "MC". Did you know that I'm the guy responsible for use of the word "toastmaster" in sf/fantasy con fandom?)

Poster boy for complete seriousness as always, I shrugged. "The usual, Cliff—seventy-five hundred dollars and hot & cold running blondes in my room."

Nobody took that seriously; I don't charge money to my fellow fans, and I'm not a bigot about hair-color, either. What I really wanted was to be put up and fed now and again and maybe find a bottle of Maker's Mark in my room. Those were easy requests, and we were off and running, and the ultra-deserving Phil Farmer got the best dam' introduction he's ever had in his life.

Years passed before Cliff quietly asked me one night at some con or other, "What the heck did you want with cold running blondes?"

"Oh, they were for the con committee," I told him airily, as if I had any idea other than that it had been a spur-ofthe-moment cute phrase that I just couldn't pass up...

The next year Jodic was Fan GoH here, and on another occasion I was Toastmaster again, and along the way I was Guest of Honor. That time was less than a month after my mother died here in Louisville, & my GoH "entertainment" was reading letters from her to me and me to her, and crying.

I hope no one weeps at this RiverCon, except maybe because it's the last one.

Juanita Coulson Fan Guest of Honor. 1975. 1995

RiverCon I was marvelous. No previous regional con

1975: Jimmy Hoffa disappears • Jaws • Vietnam War ends • Mood rings • Rocky Horror Picture Show opens • Patricia Hearst captured • 1976: The Bicentennial • Rocky, Carrie, Taxi Driver • Jimmy Carter elected president • 1977: Star Wars, Close

— let alone a first con — was ever so beautifully organized. Months of hard advance work by the committee created a pageant of fun and brain food for attendees — a harbinger of 20+ RiverCons to follow. Throughout the years, despite twists of fate and all manner of other obstacles, RiverCon's dedicated concom continued to prevail and triumph.

Looking back over those 25 years, I have only two regrets. 1) Due to circumstances beyond control, Buck and I were forced to miss a couple RiverCons; but friends assured us those, too, were up the usual wonderful standards. 2) This is going to be the last RiverCon. But...what a magnificent finale!

Like grand old troupers say, if ya gotta quit, leave at the top of your form — which is exactly what RiverCon is doing.

Thanks for all the terrific memories. It's been a real blast.

Poul Anderson Guest of Honor. 1976

Karen and I do indeed regret not being able to make the last RiverCon. In fact, every year we've been sorry that, for one reason or another, we couldn't be there.

Our memories of the two we did attend are so very pleasant. The first [RiverCon '75] was a kind of afterthought on our part, at the end of another trip. We arrived unannounced and were in line for at-the-gate registration when we were recognized and immediately treated like royalty. It was a great weekend, meeting old friends and making new ones, climaxed of course by the riverboat ride. Afterward Cliff Amos very kindly spent a day showing us around the area. It meant especially much to Karen, since she had lived thereabouts in her girlhood.

Next year we came as invited guests, and again enjoyed every minute. Again there was a day on the riverboat. We don't now recall on which of these rides Filthy Pierre took over the steam calliope. The captain had been playing old-time Southern tunes, but now suddenly we heard Bach—the only time we've ever heard his music on that instrument! I'm sure he himself would have been delighted.

Have a good one this year, and please give everybody our very best.

Frank Kelly Freas Toastmaster, 1976 Guest of Honor, 1988

Congratulations on 25 years!

Jodie Offutt Fan Guest of Honor, 1976

We went to our first convention in 1969, the St. Louis WorldCon. At that time no conventions were held in Kentucky. In fact, Kentucky had few active fans. During the next few years, our state became home to several conventions. RubiCon in Lexington and the unique ConCave, to name a couple. And, of course, RiverCon.

Everything about RiverCon has been so perfectly Louisville and Kentucky. The gaudy Galt House, its location on the Ohio River, the Sunday afternoon filksing and the boat ride up the river on the Belle of Louisville. RiverCon was also Kentucky's first DeepSouthCon and NASFiC. The move to the Executive West out near the Watterson Expressway made the con no less "Louisville." RiverCon has always been a popular convention, attracting fans from all over the country. We all have special RiverCon memories. Mine all revolve around people, the friends I've made and friendships that have grown and solidified at RiverCons.

What makes RiverCon so special are the people who have kept it consistently top-notch over the years. It began with Cliff Amos, who was followed by Steve and Sue Francis and their tireless committee. Bob Roehm, Lynn Harris, B.J. Willinger, Jack and Susan Young, Joel Zakem, and of course the continuing generations of

Encounters of the Third Kind, Saturday Night Fever • Gary Gilmore executed • Elvis and Groucho die • "You Light Up My Life" • New York City blackout • Space shuttle Enterprise makes inaugural flight • 1978: Mork & Mindy and Battlestar

Francis offspring. RiverCon has class. The program books, the art shows, the masquerades, all class operations that anyone contemplating putting on a con would do well to emulate.

Thank you, Steve, Sue and Company for bringing class to Kentucky and to fandom in the form of RiverCon, for contributing to our good memories, and for closing down this class operation in an equally classy manner. I love you all.

Joe L. Henrley

The year I was Toastmaster for RiverCon I did it just after spending one week teaching at a university writer's conference. The women at the writer's conference either wore too much lipstick or none, too many clothes or too few. The men writers-to-be wore beards and smoked bulldog pipes. When I got to Louisville I was surprised at our faaaaan normalacy

Ned Brooks Fan Guest of Honor, 1978

I remember Louisville and the Galt House, but can no longer distinguish one RiverCon from another, or whether the Louisville NASFiC in 1979 was also a RiverCon. [It wasn't officially.] You can imagine the greater problem with DeepSouthCon — I've been to those for 34 years, and it all runs together except for the last two or three.

I can say that I remember the riverboat rides — there was the girl with the pet rat [Sally Kobee]; and Erwin "Filthy Pierre" Strauss trying to play the steam calliope on the boat (and not doing very well at it, because of the long delay between asking for a note and getting it). I have forgotten the name of the fan with the laser rifle, who fired it past my head as the boat docked, but I could see the red beam in the escaping steam mist.

I have always regreted missing the chance to be one of NASFiC's "Degenerate Scum" — just not in the right place at the right time!

I will miss Bob Tucker not being at the con this time.

He was Toastmaster the same year that I was Fan GoH, which I see was 1978 — the plaque is on the side of a bookcase in the living-room. I no longer remember what inanity I mumbled — I am totally inept at public speaking — as I presented him with a bottle of Beam's Choice.

Bob Tucker Toartmarter, 1978, 1983, 1993

One of the tiptop happy memories of RiverCons Past was the year that Sue and Steve Francis took me on a tour of Churchill Downs after the con. They led me everywhere about the track and its buildings and we saw everything, including the famous Derby museum. By their design the museum was saved for last (the rascals!)

That museum houses a photograph of every horse that won the Derby since Year One, or so it seemed. The photos were mounted in chronological order and I looked forward eagerly to the winner of 1914, the year of my birth. I realized later that Sue and Steve were looking forward, too, but they were watching me, not the horses. At last we arrived at the winner of 1914.

His name was Old Rosebud.

I still bask in his glory. That was a good year and a good RiverCon.

Vincent Di fate Toastmaster, 1980

I regret that I'll be unable to make it to this last, glorious RiverCon to say a farewell to some valued friends. RiverCon has become one of the most important and viable of fan institutions over the past quarter of a century and it will be a sad thing to see it end. It has come to mean so much to so many of us. Those of us who have grown up in fandom know the impossibility of trying to explain to others without similar roots the meaning and value of the convention scene and how certain regionals flourish over time to become the pillars of the fan network.

I never thought RiverCon's ship would sail. Gone perhaps, but certainly not forgotten, it will live on in our hearts. Have one helluva con!

A Message from the Co-Chairs

A SWE VENTURE OFF ON THE LAST VOYAGE of RiverCon, we are glad we have so many of our past guests with us for our final trip down the river. In addition, there are 27 people in attendance who have made every one of the voyages with us. We hope that they have enjoyed RiverCon over the past quarter-century as much as we have.

The first RiverCon, which was also DeepSouthCon 13, was founded and chaired by Cliff Amos. Cliff was at the helm for the first seven RiverCons and then handed the ship's wheel over to us. Bob Roehm has been vice-chair of all 25 RiverCons and has also produced all of the publications. He has done an outstanding job over the years, and we have enjoyed watching the way the publications have evolved and improved. Thanks, Bob!

We have been very fortunate to have had a strong, willing and competent con committee and staff who have contributed greatly to make RiverCon what it is today. The committee and staff have our most heartfelt thanks for all of their dedication and hard work. If we started to mention names, it would take up more space than the editor will allow us to use, so let's just say a special thanks to everyone who has ever attended RiverCon over the years. We hope we have lived up to your expectations.

RiverCon has been held at several hotels since 1975, including its original home, Stouffer's Louisville Inn (now the Holiday Inn Downtown), the Galt House, the Hyatt Regency, the Hurstbourne Hotel and finally the Executive West Hotel. The Executive West and our sales manager, Bob Wells, have made us feel most welcome since 1994.

We are presenting a small commemorative gift to our past RiverCon guests who are here this year, as well as to our 25-year members who have attended every RiverCon. These can be picked up at the Registration Desk beginning Saturday at noon. We hope you enjoy them and will think of RiverCon in the years to come.

The committee as a whole decided that we would do away with one programming event this year. The Sunday afternoon gripe session ("Bricks and Bouquets") has been canceled due to lack of interest on the part of the committee.

There are tentative plans for a new science fiction and fantasy convention to be held in the Louisville area in 2001. Information about it will be available this weekend. We sincerely hope that you will give your support to this new group, and we wish them well in their efforts to continue SF conventions in Kentuckiana.

A table has been set up across from the freebie tables to distribute the last remaining copies of the program books of many RiverCons past. For the completists among you, a full set of program books will be auctioned off at some point during the convention.

Welcome aboard for this, our last journey down the river. Enjoy!

—Sue and Steve Francis RiverCon Co-Chairs

Jack William.on Guest of Honor. 1981 Special Guest. 1997

RiverCon's quarter-century has been a unique bright spot in the history of science fiction. I cherish fond recollections of all the good friends I found there, the fine programs, even my commission as a Kentucky colonel and the great grits for breakfast at the old Galt House. I wish I could have been there more often, and I'm truly sorry that New Mexico is so far that I had to miss this final meeting. Steve Francis has earned a monument in recognition for fostering the con so long, and I hope he lives forever!

RiverCon has always been my favorite regional. All of our Midwestern friends are there, many of our distant friends come in for it, Steve and Sue pick interesting guests, first Bob Roehm and now Joel Zakem schedule interesting panels, and the parties are just wonderful.

There is nothing more relaxing than gathering around the con suite or the CFG suite or one of Naomi's cooka-thons and just visiting with my friends—and my friends are the kind of people who attend RiverCon.

As to what I remember fondly about RiverCon... Geez, in a hundred words? Impossible... First of all, the people. And last of all, the people... Inbetween, the revolving restaurant at the top of the hotel (the Galt House, wasn't it?), and yes, yes, the Sunday cruise up the Ohio with the damned screaming callipoe (as I remember it). And most of all, the flattering attentions of young fans who wanted someday to be writers who wanted to know what were the secrets of the trade? Somebody had once upon a time told me the secrets (such as they were) and I cheerfully passed them on, never realizing that I would be contributing to the competition. But who would complain when the competition turned out to be Allen Steele? Little did I suspect! But never was a brain more cheerfully picked...

Dave Kyle Fan Guest of Honor, 1982

Goodbye, RiverCon! You were among the best! Over seventy decades I've been to a lot of conventions. RiverCon, you were one of the shining ones. As a genuine and original First Fandom dinosaur, I'm qualified to judge. I cherish two wonderful memories— Ruth and I were celebrating our wedding anniversay in the skyhigh restaurant of the Galt House when a friendly couple across the room sent over a bottle of champagne—they were Lester and Judy Lynn del Rey. And then there was the very heart of RiverCon, a boat trip along the river where the flood marks on buildings were so incredibly high, alongside wonderful Blanche and Jack Williamson. Three of them are gone (God bless you, Jack). And now it's RiverCon's turn into eternity. Goodbye, Sweet Memories. It was fun!

In 1976 I had just returned from spending five years in Europe. I also went to my first real SF con over there in the UK. So I'm a British fan with an extremely far west midlands accent.

RiverCon was my FIRST US SF convention. When one travels in Europe, and elsewhere, one is reminded to

It was also pretty good ID. For some reason the woman at the registration desk was stunned when I handed her my passport. Then there was the interview with the reporter who was astounded to learn that there was SF outside of the US, and that it was possible to relate SF to the 200th anniversary of our country. I think I got more column inches that the conchair. :-)

Needless to say I had a marvelous time. RiverCon has always had a very warm spot in my heart. The times I've made it back have all be GREAT I I thank you very much. —The Wombat (I wasn't called that in '76, but soon afterward... Oh well, that's another story.)

Guests of Honor, 1983

We are saddened to learn that next year will be not only the 25th-year celebration of RiverCon, but also the last Louisville Science Fiction and Fantasy Convention. Since we were your Guests of Honor in 1983, Sprague and I especially regret that we shall be unable to participate and to be a part of the final reunion and farewell. We dinosaurs of the "Golden Age" of Science Fiction find traveling far from our lair a bit trying in our "mature youth." But we do try to keep up with friends and fans via correspondence and e-mail. And we now have a web site at www.lspraguedecamp.com. We find this a splended way to keep in touch and hear from our fans.

Sprague and I wish every one of our friends at RiverCon a huge success in 2000. May the memories last forever! [from a letter from Catherine de Camp, August 24, 1999]

Jill & Don Eastlake

We were Fan Guests of Honor for RiverCon IX. We were very happy to be invited and had a lot of fun at the convention, and with our friends Steve and Sue Francis. The problem was that Guests of Honor aren't supposed to "work" on a convention, and we had never attended a SF convention without working on it. So, we had a challenge. We practised earlier that spring at Disclave in not working on the convention. It's tough, because we kept kinda wanting to sit down to help in some way. So, we saw more program than ever that spring...

So, we got to RiverCon and had two jobs — be friendly and see as many people at the convention as possible, and speak a speech. We hadn't ever written a speech together before, so that was an interesting experience. We spoke, I think, amusingly, for a few minutes and were infinitely grateful that was over.

So, here we are. It's the last day of the convention. We've almost made it without "work"ing... We were in the Dealer's Room with Steve and a couple of other fans from Boston. The Dealers had cleared out, and so it was down to the tables and things. Steve went out of the room to call the hotel people to come and clear the tables into the storage area. We all looked at each other, smirked, nodded... and went to work. By the time Steve returned (probably 10 minutes later), we had folded all the tables up and stacked them at the entrance to the storage area.

And we felt better, too.

We had done our job - we're friendly anyway, we made our speech, we helped out by moving tables, and we learned how to say "Lou-a-vull" like a native. What a great weekend!

George R.R. Martin Guest of Honor. 1985

RiverCon has always been one of the most aptly named of conventions, and my memories are flavored by the river as well as the con. RiverCon for me will always evoke the Ohio, and the Belle of Louisville. Moonlight

Aid • Miami Vice, Moonlighting, Growing Pains • New Coke • CDs • Rock Hudson dies of AIDS • 1986: Space shuttle Challenger explodes • Top Gun • ALF • The Meese Commission • Hands Across America • 1987: Iran-Contra hearings • on the river, calliope music, paddlewheels, and a steamboat full of fans heading upriver...what could be sweeter? The year I was GoH, I even managed to get up to the pilot house and lay hands on her wheel. There's more than a bit of my Belle memories in my novel Fevre Dream, and every RiverCon brings them back to me.

Mike Glick/ohn Togytmaster, 1985

If memory serves — and it usually doesn't — I've attended four RiverCons. (My awe and admiration for the people who have run twenty-five of them is unbounded!) Because of who I am and how I attend cons, I have few specific memories of my times there, just a general sense of the fact that you guys Give Good Con. But I certainly do have a very specific memory of my good friend George RR Martin sliding out of his seat at the head table at the banquet at RiverCon X and disappearing under the cloth-draped table as I read out his "gosh-oh-wow-oh-boy" letter to an ancient Marvel comic book as part of my introduction. And I have a very specific memory of the beautiful glass pegasus you gave me for that gig because it remains one of my most prized fannish trophies. For a quarter century of truly fabulous weekends, Thank You All!!

Richard & Nicki lynch Fan Guests of Honor. 1986

Before Nicki and I moved from Tennessee to Maryland in 1988, attending RiverCon was one of the year's priorities. We've got many pleasant memories from those convention trips over the years, some of them true science fictional sense-of wonder — during the RiverCon weekend in 1976, for instance, there was the news from NASA (which later proved to be unfounded, alas) that the Viking Mars lander may have detected life there.

Some of our most fun conventions were RiverCons. The 1978 convention, when Bob Bloch and Bob Tucker were guests, resulted in one of the most entertaining interview/discussions we have ever witnessed, with the two of them talking about events from fan eras long past while each tried to one-up the other, as old friends (like they were to each other) often do. But our most enduring memory will probably be a room party hosted SOMETIMES I STILL FEEL LIKE THE NEW KID on the block. Not that my time in fandom is short. I attended my first MidWestCon in 1968 and my first RiverCon in 1980 (also having attended the 1979 "non-rivercon" NASFiC). But it was not until I moved to Louisville in 1983 that I became involved with the RiverCon committee. Even though 17 years might seem like a long time, it pales when compared to Sue, Steve, Bob, Lynn, and the others who have been here since the beginning.

It did not take long for me to be "volunteered" to help. During a June 1983 trip to look for my first apartment in Louisville, Bob Roehm asked if I could write a short piece on Bob Tucker for the RiverCon VIII program book. I complied and continued to hang around the committee for the next several years and help where needed, such as making off-the-wall program suggestions (like The Oldyweds Game) and even serving as an elevator cop at the Hyatt one year, but I was not listed in the program book as an "official" committee member until RiverCon XVI in 1991.

There are probably several reasons for this. I have never been much of a joiner, and I was "trained" by the Cincinnati Fantasy Group, where things tend to (eventually) get done without any type of formal committee structure. Besides, I still do not know how I ended up running programming.

And while I have been known to get a bit frustrated with RiverCon, especially during June and July when the schedule is coming together at the last moment, I know I am going to miss the people who put on this thing, as well as the "regulars" who agree to participate in whatever crazy program ideas that I concoct. It was a good run, and it is nice to go out on top.

by your 1987 guest, Bob Shaw. Not long before the convention, we'd found quite a few books by him at a second-hand bookstore in Chattanooga; many of these had been owned by one Vernon J. Schryver of Boulder, Colorado, who had thoughtfully printed his name on the title page of some of the books.

During the course of the party, I was able to get Bob to sign the books for me and Nicki. But when got to the copy of The Two Timers, there, staring back at him, were Black Monday on Wall Street • Dirty Dancing, Fatal Attraction • The Beastie Boys • Married...with Children, Thirtysomething • 1988: Robert A. Heinlein dies • Last Playboy Club closes • Roseanne • Tetris • "Don't Worry, Be Happy" • Bush/Quayle WHAT A LONG STRANGE TRIP IT'S BEEN! I've worn so many hats at RiverCon that I could change my name to Bartholomew Cubbins, but the main one has been serving as RiverCon's vice-chair since the beginning. As in real life, this is an impressive title without much actual responsibility, but I've also been program director, publications editor, and I even ran the art show for a couple of years way back when.

There are many, many people who deserve mention and thanks, and I'm sure to miss a few, but here goes. First, Joel Zakem, Kira Tash and Jack Heazlitt, who as my successors have skillfully programmed RiverCon for many years. What a great job you have done. It's not easy juggling conflicting schedules, impossibly-sized rooms, and an occasional ego all at the same time, and all three of you in your turn performed admirably.

I'm sure I can speak for the entire staff when I say what a great bunch of guests we have had over the past 25 years. It may not be polite to single anyone out, but I'll mention a few who aren't here this weekend who made it all worthwhile: Philip José Farmer (twice!), Jack Williamson, Lou Tabakow, the de Camps, Robert Bloch—you were and are class acts who made hosting you a real privilege.

Our flyers and program books have come a long way from typewriters and transfer lettering. I can't believe how much work it used to be. This is one area where technology has really paid off! I'd like to mention Pat Martin at Beechmont Press, who has been with us since practically the beginning, helping my work look its best. She retired last month, so we're doing this last one without her. We all wish her well in the future.

Others not to be forgotten include Lynn Harris (she of the many shoes and household appliances), her patience-of-a-saint husband John Harris, Jack Young (whose natural affinity with movie projectors worked wonders for us in the early days), and Susan Young (who valiantly tried to run the consuite for the entire weekend without a break). Not to mention the entire current committee and staff.

But there are three people without whom there would not have been a RiverCon to celebrate today: Cliff Amos, whose vision RiverCon was, and Steve & Sue Francis, who carried on that vision. Thank you all. —Bob Roehm RiverCon Vice-Chair the words 'Vernon J. Schryver.' "Schryver?" said Bob, "Who is Vernon J. Schryver?" Bob was a good sport; after I explained the book's ownership history, he bemusedly signed the book: "With best wishes from" above and "& Bob Shaw" below Schryver's name. Everybody in the room got a laugh when they saw, and the story made the rounds of the convention after that. It was the first time Nicki and I had actually met Bob Shaw, and he was a friend to us after that. We have missed him since his passing a few years ago, just as we'll miss RiverCon after its passing.

Like with Bob, we regret we weren't able to cross paths with you as often as we wanted to. We're left with these memories, and we'll treasure them. Thank you for a fine quarter of a century.

Samanda b Jeudé Fan Guezt of Honor. 1988

When I think of RiverCon, I think of so many happy memories. But the main ones fall into the categories of Friends, and Masquerades ... probably because they tend to meld together.

My very first convention was the first RiverCon in 1975, and I approached it with trepidation. Would I be liked? Would people even notice me? But Special Guest Mr. Thomas Burnett Swann laid that fear to rest: he did more than just smile at me, he stopped to chat, to share his precious time with me, and he left me glowing. Just how precious that time was, I did not know—Mr. Swann was dying even as we met—but he still took time and effort to welcome me into Fandom. It was, and still is, a memory I hold precious to me: that every one who goes to Cons is worth knowing, even if it's for a fleeting moment of time.

That was the convention where Ruth (then Dorr, later Woodring) did her classic "Bode Nun", and I left with the memory that a masquerade was more than just a place to show off what you could do: it was a place to celebrate ideas, concepts, artwork that was appreciated. Ruth, like Tom Swann, is gone now, but the lesson she taught will live in me until the day I'm gone.

Although there are many other memories I'd love to share—getting my caricature done by Frank Kelly Freas, beat Dukakis/Bentsen • 1989: Time-Warner merge • The Exxon Valdez runs aground • Jerry Falwell disbands the Moral Majority • Battleship lowa explodes • Lucille Ball and Mel Blanc die • Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure • 1990:

meeting Murray Porath under silly circumstances, hearing (and seeing) the "buddy bear" song with Margaret Middleton and Eric Webb, being awe-struck by B.J. Willinger's haunting song "Bonsai" – there is one special memory that's not quite mine. There's a gentleman who saw me dressed in a g-string, boots, and a strategically-placed belt—I was part of the Ming Awardwinning "Bode's (er...come to think of it, this is a family publication, so let's just drop the descriptive phrase) Troops"—who thought I might be someone worth knowing. On 31 July, we'll have been married 18 years.

Who says SF Cons can't be worthwhile?

Dick Spelman Fan Guest of Honor. 1989

Memories of past RiverCons are blends of the good and the less good. Sunday brunches at the Galt House parking at the Holiday Inn — selling books to fans who became good friends — playing card game and attending bid parties. After a rocky start at NorthAmeriCon (which Steve insists was not a RiverCon), Steve and Sue have become close friends — a friendship which survived the Louisville Worldcon bid!

Arlan Andrews. Sr. Toastmaster. 1989

Some of the most fun I've ever had in my life was at RiverCon. It was finally about 1977 when we first made it to The Galt House, Joyce and I. One of the greatest impressions was Cliff Amos, dressed as a priest, dancing with somebody dressed as a nun — and all the aliens, et al, disco-ing away. Ken Moore was there, whom I'd met in Nashville three years before, and the Khan-tourage with him. And Andy Offutt, and Ghod knows who else.

That year or later, we saw B. J. Willinger's "Stringworld" play and loved it and wanted to do something like it. The result, eventually, was an unbroken 20-year string of mostly like-minded, mostly-musical fan plays at Inconjunction, of which I wrote the first five and several more later. This Indy tradition continues, along with the (fan?) dances, both inspired by RiverCon. We will never forget the good times and the good people of RiverCon, particularly when in 1989 I was very honored to be the Toastmaster. Thanks to all, especially Steve and Sue Francis and everyone else who made it so much fun and exciting.

Live longer and prosper more!

Mike Resnick Guest of Honor. 1990 Fan Guest of Honor. 1981 Toastmaster. 2000

It was love at first sight.

There was something about RiverCon's ambience that just clicked with us. Maybe it was the Galt House, which we still love. Maybe it was the fact that every year we would eat at the late lamented Casa Grisante, or that this year will mark the 24th year in a row I've pigged out on Rebecca sauce during Sunday brunch.

But mostly it was the people, and the feel of the con. Because after it changed locations and moved to the (ugh) Holiday Inn, we still loved it; and when it moved to the very nice but somewhat inconvenient Hyatt we kept coming; and now that it's been ensconced for years at the Executive West it has remained our favorite regional con through thick and thin. It has a great huckster room. The panels are always entertaining (and what other con has an Oldly-Wed Game?) The masquerade is far superior to the typical regional convention, whatever shindig we have Friday nights is always enjoyable and usually calorie-laden, and I love wandering the halls of RiverCon, going from party to party, from the CFG suite to the con suite to Naomi's 5-star cookery to whatever.

It's only two hours from home, which means almost all of Cincinnati fandom shows up for it, and it's run by some of our favorite people, and I don't know about anyone else, but I don't want it to die, because if we moved to Africa or Mars or anywhere in between, this is the one con I know we would fly back for every year.

So, to paraphrase the immortal line: Say it ain't so, Sue and Steve!

I've been to Louisville four times before this year, and each visit has had an impact on my life.

In the mid-60's, I spent the summer after my freshman year in college working as a a carhop at a Jerry's Big Boy on the Shelbyville Pike. I'd had a hard year at school and wasn't sure if I wanted to go back, but car-hopping was hot and sticky and made my feet hurt. What I learned: Finishing college is a good ideal

In the late 70's, I went to the NASFiC as chair of the upcoming Worldcon, Noreascon II. Before then, I'd been a rather shy and introverted person, but it's impossible to be shy when you're chairing a Worldcon. At the NASFiC, I was SMOF Central - everyone wanted to talk to me, make suggestions, and ask for favors. What I learned: Power can be fun!

In the mid-80's, I attended my first RiverCon. I'd had a lot of years of intense fannish activity, and by now I was burnt out. I relaxed and enjoyed myself, spending much of my time floating on Ken Moore's inner tube in the middle of the Galt House pool. What I learned: Being mellow is cool!

In the early 90's, I was invited to RiverCon XVI as Fan GoH. I was smothered with hospitality, interviewed alongside Lois McMaster Bujold, made a Kentucky Colonel, and taken on a riverboat cruise to the sounds of a steam calliope. What I learned: Having friends is great!

And now I'm coming back for the last RiverCon in the year 2000. Who knows what changes this visit will bring?

Thanks for the good times!

Emma Bull Toarter, 1991

I'm sorry I won't be able to make it, after all (bummer...). Have a great last hurrah, though, and tell everyone I'm thinking of them! RiverCON IS THE KIND OF CONVENTION I enjoy relaxing at, visiting with friends, attending programs and parties...except now I won't and RiverCon will be sorely missed. Conventions are only as good as the folks who run them and RiverCon is one of the best. Since RiverCon II, it has been fun to work on conventions, although there were times when I had second thoughts. When Lou Tabakow and Sid Altus sat beside me in the con suite, pelted me with personal questions and regaled me with tales and jokes for hours, however, I never looked back. Making friends at this convention is an utmost privilege.

The old joke about sf cons is you never talk about science fiction. Many times, with dawn streaking the sky, I have been part of astounding discussions on philosophy, death, religion, love, books, movies, music and art. These have been life-affirming contacts. Partying well is also something I have done at RiverCons, bringing my own craziness with me. Such as: multiple pairs of shoes; fending off the zany "Cincinnati Mafia" of Bob, Tom, Wayne and Jay; helping Sue and Donna in registration; and once on my way from Columbus to Louisville in 1985, stopping to pick up George R. R. Martin in Cincinnati, telling him how I was always in the art show and didn't even know who that year's guest was. George kindly never did inform me that he was that year's guest of honor.

Steve, Sue, Bob, Ken, Donna, Cliff, B.J., Jack, Susan, Shelby, Joel, Gail and all the rest, you are wonderful, thanks and love. I extend profound appreciation for many tireless volunteers in other departments and the art show, some of whom went on to run their own art shows. Rusty and others, thanks for exciting auctions. To the many friends who are talented artists, you have made RiverCon art shows great. My gratitude to Kevin, Alan, Darryl, Nancy and all others. In my memory and heart always, Dixie, Suzie and Paul.

T HAS BEEN 21 YEARS since I began attending RiverCon, 20 since I began working on the Masquerade staff, and 10 since I began directing it. They have been wonderful years. I've learned much, but I'm still in awe of the people who can create a costume and get up on that stage.

RiverCon is the convention by which I judge all other conventions, and its shoes will be hard to fill. Through it, I have made many friends and learned much. Even though the friendships won't end with closing ceremonies, RiverCon will be missed.

Thanks to all who have attended this convention and the masquerade. You are the reason we do this. Thanks to the costumers who have entertained us with their creations and the staff that has worked so diligently to make sure that the show goes on. Thanks to Steve and Sue Francis for keeping RiverCon alive for 25 years and making sure it gets better each year. Your trust and support I treasure. A special thank you to Richard and Lois Wellinghurst. Without your help for these last 10 years, I would be residing at Our Lady of Peace.

Now, this was not a "real" RiverCon, but it was our first trip to Louisville. It was a very memorable con in many ways, so I'd like to think of it as a "virtual RiverCon." It was in downtown, at the Galt House, not far from the Ohio River. There was an ethnic festival going on all weekend in the plaza adjacent to the hotel, and a number of us visited the mundane event for cheap food. And this was also known as "Caftcan-con," when a store near the hotel that was selling "world clothing" was going out of business, encouraging many male fans to buy the African outfits.

The highlight of the con was the evening riverboat ride. Hundreds of congoers walked down the gangplank to the biggest paddlewheel boat most of us had ever been on.We cruised up and down the Ohio to the music of a pipe organ. I got a picture of Fred Pohl talking to Jack Williamson (and, nearly twenty years later, got them both to sign it at Bucky).

As much as we enjoyed Louisville, we didn't get back to a RiverCon until 1992. That one was particularly memorable one for me as I was Fan GoH. Sue and Steve Francis were wonderful to the guests and to everyone else. We played fannish Jeopardy, took another riverboat ride, and went to a German restaurant for a great meal.

We got back to RiverCon just two years later. This time, we threw a party, relaxed by the pool and just took it easy. We wound up driving Dave Kyle back to Pittsburgh, so he could have a shorter bus ride home.

I have pleasant memories of RiverCon and NorthAmeriCon. While I'm sad to hear that the classic RiverCons are coming to an end, I'm glad to have the chance to stop back one last time.

Bruce Pelz Toartmarter, 1992

RiverCon has always been, for me, a Relaxacon — even moreso than Midwestcon, most years. I go to talk with people, on the committee and off, to see Chis Barkley beat up on the other Trivialists, to play poker almost as weird as LASFS Poker for half the night so someone can go home with someone else's rolls of dimes and nickels, or to watch whazzthernames make semi-public spectacles of themselves to a mostly appreciative audience.

I'm ready for the RiverCon, The one to be the final one. I was a GoH once in the past, I'm sure the last will be a blast.

Julius Schwartz Toastmaster, 1994

Whenever I attended an S-F con, I was always glad to see my friends Jack Williamson and L. Sprague de Camp—that made them the oldest members!

At RiverCon this year, I suspect I am the senior member.

There have been many storytellers in my life: Ray Bradbury, Robert Bloch, Alfred Bester, Leigh Brackett, Otto Binders—and those are only the B's—but for the "L" of it, there was H.P. Lovecraft! Now it's my turn to tell stories about the storytellers in Man of Two Worlds: My Life in Science Fiction and Comics, just published on my 85th birthday by Harper Entertainment!

[We thought Julie was right about being the oldest attending member, but checking Clute and Nicholls' Science Fiction Encyclopedia tells us that while Julie was born in 1915, his good friend Dave Kyle was born in 1912! Forrest Ackerman is a comparative spring chicken with a 1916 birth date.]

Kevin Ward Artist Guest, 1995, 1998

I'm really not allowed to tell you my fondest RiverCon memory, but it involves a carnivorous fawn and some balloons.

There was a time before the 80's SF boom when fans were fewer and farther between, when you almost had to hide your Asimov books behind a magazine so as not to draw much attention. A huge get-together of fans back then was something really special. Now there's an SF movie on most of the cable channels around the clock and you can find SF "fans" by just walking out your front door. RiverCon has always maintained that special flavor of conventions from those pre-Star Wars days when fandom was the most magical thing. Thank you, Steve and Sue, for taking us all to the stars.

Darryl Elliott Artist Guest. 1996

The one thing that really stands out in my mind about RiverCon is it is the only convention that I tried to take my entire family to. Most cons do not cater to families and I am extremely grateful for the concern Steve and Sue have shown over the years to families and their needs. It is a 9-hour drive from our home, but we happily overlook it because we enjoy RiverCon so much.

In 1996, at RiverCon XXI, I was the Artist Guest of Honor and can truly say I was treated with honor and like I was someone important (which I am not; I just happen to be able to draw a little bit). Steve and Sue really know how to treat their guests, and I for one am truly grateful. I haven't been able to attend the past few RiverCons due to scheduling problems, so I consider " myself very lucky and privileged to be able to attend this, the last RiverCon....Kind of sad, isn't it?

Allen Steele Toartmarter, 1996

I'm almost positive that I attended the first RiverCon; twenty-five years tend to creep up on you, though, and I haven't found my membership badge, so I may be mistaken about this. Yet I'm dead-certain that I was at Rivercon II, because I recall the FBI agents in blue suits wandering around the dealer's room, trying to pass as fans while making discrete inquiries about pirate copies of current movies alleged to being traded there. Perhaps the less said about this, the better; just one more reason why RiverCon always seemed to have a certain outlaw edge.

During my years as a teenage fan, RiverCon was a regular stop on my annual summer tour of SF conventions, because going up to Louisville meant another adventure. Wild rides across the Kentucky state line with Ken Moore in his beat-to-shit Volkswagen. The run-down pool hall about five blocks from the Galt House where I went for barbecue and a quick round of eight-ball with the local hustlers. Drinking mint juleps with Frank M. Robinson on starboard promenade of the Belle of Louisville, watching the river roll by while Frank told me everything I needed to know about becoming a working writer. Chatting about books with Rusty Hevelin at his dealer's table, and him introducing me to genre masterpieces I had neglected to read. Taking a college girlfriend to the convention, observing her reactions to my friends, and by late Sunday afternoon coming to the awful but true realization that she wasn't the girl I wanted to marry after all. Some cons, you go to just for fun; for some reason, though, every RiverCon was a learning experience, because I always went home a little sharper, a little wiser.

I'm going to miss RiverCon like I miss being 18. Another generation of hell-raising young Southern men will have to find another place to come of age.

As we celebrate the 25th anniversary of RiverCon, memories must flood our minds of the good times enjoyed by all. Many people have built lifetime relationships by being a volunteer. To be a volunteer today is certainly a commitment to a club or organization, one that takes dedication and sacrifice. Being a volunteer certainly has guided many movements within the United States throughout our history. Without this support system, many services could and would not exist. RiverCon volunteers have achieved success!

On behalf of the management and staff of the Executive West Hotel, thank you for your dedication to RiverCon! Many of you have become very good friends over the years. You will agree that building relationships is a very positive force in our lives. I certainly enjoyed my relationship with the RiverCon volunteer staff. May I express my special "thank you" to Sue and Steve Francis. Their friendship, dedication, and organizational skills have guided RiverCon to a very successful level. I do look forward to working with you folks again in the future. We welcome RiverCon attendees to our property and trust that your accommodations are most comfortable. Welcome also to the many VIP guests who have attended RiverCon throughout the years. Please enjoy RiverCon XXV and your weekend!! -Bob Wells

Harry Turtledove Guest of Honor, 1998

My chief memory of RiverCon XXIII is of being introduced by Hal Clement, who was Toastmaster while I was GoH. Amazing how strange that felt, and how much it felt as if it should have been the other way around. I started reading his stuff in the early 1960s. I trashed a copy of Needle (then titled From Outer Space, and with a ghastly chrome-yellow cover) by dropping it in a puddle on a rainy day while hurrying from one class to another at my high school, lo these many years ago. And now he was introducing me? What's wrong with that picture?

The other thing I remember, and that I'll always cherish, is how friendly everyone was and what a good time I had. I do appreciate the chance to have been at one of the really fine cons in the country. Louisville won't be the same without it.

Chris Tate and Julee Johnson-Tate

fan Guests of Honor, 1998

Steve and Sue Francis asked us to be RiverCon Fan Guests of Honor for 1998 at the 1997 ConCave. The funny thing was, it was during the power outage at the hotel. Everyone was running around with flashlights, so when Steve and Sue asked us to step out in the hall (from our room party), we thought it was kind of interesting. Needless to say, we were thrilled, but Chris still says it proves that Steve and Sue were in the dark when they asked us!

Chris reminisced running around at the first RiverCon, when he was in his early twenties, looking for the alleged orgy. Julee didn't start her fannish experiences until 1986 when she met Sue at the Atlanta WorldCon, where Sue was Gopher Mom, so she just missed "the Golden Days of Fandom."

Thanks again for having us as Fan Guests. It's truly been a thrill and what a great time we've had at RiverCon!

My first RiverCon was also the next-to-last one, which left me with the unnerving feeling that it was a fine, healthy convention until I killed it. But then I was reassured that I was not to blame, and thus I settled down to the gruelling task of being treated royally on all counts. I could get used to this, I thought. Alas, it was not to be, for RiverCon was making a gracious exit. I know it will be missed and I'm pleased to be part of the teary-eyed throng waving farewell with our lace hankies as it slowly pulls away from the dock and sails off into the sunset, heading for the happy land where all good conventions go when they pass into fannish history and legend. (I would now break into a chorus of "Aloha O'e" but I hear the Overdone Metaphor Police pounding at my door, so let's leave it at that.)

Pat & Roger Sims

Ever since we attended our first RiverCon, about 15 years ago, it became one of our favorites. Congratulations on 25 years of great cons!

We will especially remember the Con Committee's many kindnesses shown us last year so that we were able to be Fan Guests as scheduled despite Roger's triple bypass surgery three weeks earlier!

There are many memories of the Rivercons we attended, but one of our favorites is of the unbelievably incompetent restaurant at the Holiday Inn. It was there, while trying to have breakfast with the Resnicks, that Mike announced to Roger, "This part of the napkin is mine."

We will need to place a black ring around RiverCon's traditional weekend on our con calendar for years to come!

Lawrence Watt-Evans Toastmaster, 1999

My parents were fans who gafiated in the 1950s, before I was born, over the Dianetics mess, so despite growing up in a house full of SF and reading vast quantities of it I deliberately had no contact with fandom until 1980, when my first novel was published. At that point it occurred to me that fandom might be commercially useful, so when I got a call from Dori Isaacs, asking if I'd like to come to a meeting of what later became LexFA, I agreed. (She'd seen a feature article about me, a "local boy makes good" piece, in the Lexington Herald-Leader.)

I then discovered that I liked fans.

I heard about conventions from those folks, in particular the upcoming RiverCon V, and decided that would be fun — I was still as much interested in the idea of selling more books as the fannish aspect, to be honest. So I wrote and asked to be on the program, without any very clear idea what that involved.

Not knowing any better, we skipped Friday night and arrived Saturday around noon. As I was walking up the stairway in the Galt House, on my way to registration and unsure what I'd gotten myself into, someone I knew passed me going the other way — I don't remember who — and said, "Oh, hi, Lawrence! You're on a panel in five minutes, aren't you?"

"I am? What's a panel?"

I registered, mentioned this to the folks at the desk, and was told yes indeed, I was on the new writers' panel in about two minutes.

In fact, I was the moderator.

I got a quick explanation of what this involved, dashed to the appropriate room, and astonishingly enough managed to get through the panel without panicking or seriously screwing anything up. Phyllis Ann Karr, who was also on the panel, carried us whenever I got confused.

After that, conventions held no more terrors for me. And after that, the rest of it was fun, often in ways I hadn't expected.

I heard Roger Zelazny read "Unicorn Variation." I discovered the art show and the huckster room. And finally, I found myself sitting on a couch in the con suite next to Roger Zelazny on Sunday morning, and spent half an hour trying to think of something to say a little less stupidly obvious than, "Wow, you're Roger Zelazny! I love your work!"

I finally gave up and said that, and he was gracious about it, despite having surely heard it a zillion times.

That was my first RiverCon, and my first convention of any kind, and I eagerly attended the next five and had a great time at all of them. It was RiverCon that convinced me it would be worth attending other conventions farther away, such as Worldcons, and I had fun at a lot of them, but RiverCon was always the most reliably enjoyable weekend of the year. I attended good cons and bad cons and everything in between, and RiverCon remained the standard by which I judged them.

In 1986 we had a new baby, we were preparing to move out of state, my sister had just died, and life was generally being far too busy and complex, so we broke our streak and didn't attend RiverCon XI — but I got listed on the flyer anyway, which was irksome. I complained, got an apology, and RiverCon and I parted on friendly but less than ideal terms. After moving to Maryland I could never quite justify spending the time and money to come back.

That made it especially nice to be invited back for RiverCon XXIV. It was like a trip back in time. It was once again the most enjoyable weekend of the year. I'd missed you guys.

And now I'm going to miss you all the more, knowing RiverCon's gone for good.

A Statement About the Future of RiverCon

S THE END OF THE MILLENNIUM APPROACHES, we have decided to retire RiverCon, Louisville's annual science fiction and fantasy convention, after the 25th convention in the year 2000.

After much consideration, we based this decision on two main factors. The first, and foremost, was that we do not wish to continue running RiverCon beyond that time when we can do it with enthusiasm and fresh ideas. We want RiverCon to end on a high note as a successful and enjoyable convention, not only for the members who attend each year but also for those running it as well.

The second factor relates to our committee members. We have enjoyed an association with a fine group of talented and dedicated people who have been working on and supporting RiverCon for many years. However, it is obvious that this same group of people cannot continue to run RiverCon indefinitely. Replacing retiring committee members, department heads, and even staff has become increasingly difficult. By establishing an ending date, we have hopefully provided that "light at the end of the tunnel" that will give all our committee members (and ourselves!) the incentive to stay with RiverCon through the very last one.

The RiverCon name and distinctive logo will be retired with the convention. The names "RiverCon" and "NorthAmeriCon" are service marks of the Louisville Science Fiction Association, Inc., and cannot be used without the express written permission of the Association's Board of Directors.

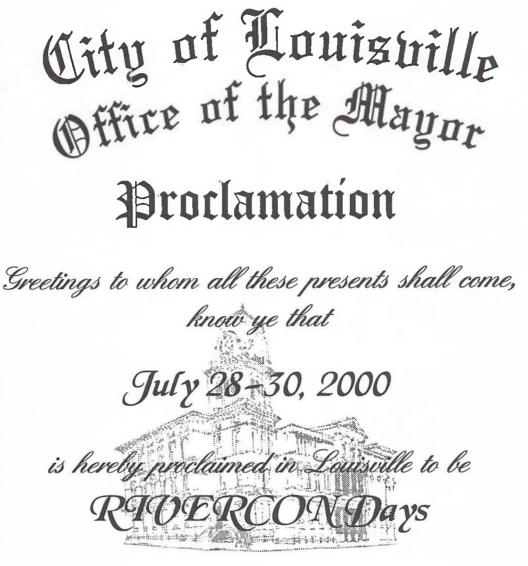

Any group that wishes to begin a new SF convention in Louisville does so with our best wishes. If asked, we will be happy to offer any advice, wisdom, and guidance our cummulative decades have given us. We want to make it clear, however, that any new Louisville SF convention will be completely independent of RiverCon and its present committee, even if there is an overlap of individual members.

We sincerely hope that the many people who have attended and enjoyed RiverCon over the years will continue to do so through the year 2000. We and the RiverCon committee offer our thanks and appreciation to all those who have given us their support and enriched our lives since RiverCon began its long voyage way back in 1975.

We cordially invite you to enjoy RiverCon XXV, July 28 - 30, 2000. A splendid time is guaranteed for all.
