You may question our authority for the blatant statement above, but you will be in error. I quote from several reliable sources ----- people who KNOW about fanzines, and are qualified to pass judgment on our efforts. For instance, Joe Kennedy remarked recently, "...of all the fan publications bouncing merrily thru the mails today, DQ comes nearest to my personal ideal of what a science-fiction fanzine should be." And then there was F. Towner Laney, onetime editor of Acolyte, for years a topranking fanmag, who characterized Dream Quest thus: "...the most promising general fanzine I can find, the magazine that I expect will in time be #1 in the polls."

More remarks from authorities in the field: "One of the best of a fine crop..." is the verdict of Sam Merwin Jr., writing in his column in Startling Stories. Jack Speer granted that "...you have a very good mag as it stands, with promise of even better in the future." That was in a letter of comment on #2, our worst issue to date, as was Merwin's remark. So, you see, we're good! To do on, Dunk, in Fanews, announced in a review of DQ: "This is rapidly becoming our idea of No. 1 fanzine."! Other people who know -- Rex Ward, Stan Mullen, Henry Elsnor, Jr., Sam Moskowitz, Art Widner, and many more -- have told us that they like our mag.

As you can see, all this adds up to the fact that any fan who keeps on failing to get Dream Quest is a boob, to put it mildly. The future will bring topflight material by Laney, Boland, Lovecraft, Ladd, Rothman, Rapp, Moskowitz, and other top names in the fantasy world. The past has been highlighted by R.F. Farley, Redd Boggs, Kennedy, Rog Phillips, Speer, Moskowitz, and others. Regular features by Ward and Swenson place the frosting on one of the top "cakes" in the fanzine world today. You're missing something if you don't subscribe without delay, take it from us!
