FAPA Constitution

1. FUNCTION: The Fantasy Amateur Press Association (FAPA) operates in the general field of amateur activity that has grown up around interest in fantasy fiction. Its quarterly mailings distribute to its members material written or published by members.

2. MEMBERS: 2.1 Not more than 65 persons can be members of FAPA at any one time.

2.2 Membership is open to anyone who can show, as proof of his interest in fantasy amateur activity, the existence of one of the following credentials:

2.21 That he has had contributions, in the form of verse, drawings, fiction or non-fiction, published in two fantasy amateur publications that were not produced in the same metropolitan area.

2.22 That he has been the editor or publisher, in a real sense, of at least one issue of a fantasy amateur publication (fanzine).

2.3 An individual who desires to join FAPA shall send to the secretary-treasurer an application stating his desire to join, and citing credentials as described under section 2.2 of this constitution. The credentials must have been published not more than one year prior to the date of application. The secretary-treasurer shall determine whether the credentials are valid; if so, he shall admit the person to FAPA membership on payment of dues. If there is no vacancy and the credentials are valid, the applicant shall be admitted to a waiting list as of the date his application is received by the secretary-treasurer. The waiting-list shall be maintained by the secretary-treasurer and shall be published in the official organ each quarter. Copies of the official organ shall be sent each quarter to each person on the waiting list. The secretary-treasurer shall require from each person on the waiting list a flat subscription fee for the FANTASY AMATEUR, on a calendar year basis; one year at a time, no extra years accepted, pro rata for parts of a year; non-receipt of such indication shall be considered grounds for removal from the waiting list. As vacancies in the membership occur, the secretary-treasurer shall notify the person who applied the earliest, at which time the individual shall again cite valid credentials, published within a year from the date his membership is to begin, and must pay dues. In all cases, membership begins upon the date set for the next quarterly mailing unless a different date is set by the secretary-treasurer.

2.4 A new member must have renewal credentials distributed with the third mailing after his joining, or with an earlier mailing or postmailing following his admission; otherwise he shall receive only the first two mailings of his membership year, his membership shall be cancelled and his dues forfeited.

2.5 Husband and wife, each having acceptable credentials, may establish and maintain a joint membership, which shall be regarded as a single person for payment of dues, receipt of mailings, voting in elections, signing petitions, and holding office.

3. RENEWALS: 3.1 To renew his membership a member must have renewal credentials. Renewal credentials consist of credentials described in 2.21 and 2.22 but must total 8 1/2 pages or the equivalent in page area. Letters will not count unless they represent a substantial contribution to FAPA. To count, renewal credentials must be distributed in FAPA mailings or postmailings during the year that ends when the fourth quarterly mailing under the member's current membership is sent out. Postmailings that are not distributed before the fourth quarterly mailing do not count. Reprints do not count unless they represent substantial work in rewriting or compiling the material. (This provision shall not serve to deny credit to material solely because it was distributed outside FAPA shortly prior to its inclusion in a FAPA mailing.)

3.2 If a member fails to have renewal credentials, due to section 5.56, an error of an officer, or postal delays beyond what might be reasonably and cautiously expected, he shall, if he offers dues in time, have an additional quarter in which to make up his credential deficiency. In these cases dues will be refundable. The member will not receive the fifth mailing unless his credential deficiency is removed, nor will further extensions be granted.

3.3 On endorsement by 22 other members, a member's lack of renewal credentials shall be waived on a particular occasion.

3.4 Renewal dues must be paid so as to be received by the treasurer on or before the mailing date of the fourth mailing under the member's current membership.

3.5 On endorsement of 12 other members, a member will be granted an extension of one mailing to fulfill renewal credentials on a particular occasion. To be effective, all endorsements under this section or section 3.3 must reach the secretary-treasurer fifteen days before the deadline of the mailing affected.

4. FINANCES: 4.1 Dues are $3.00 per year for members residing in North America and $2.00 for overseas members.

The treasurer will accept donations. The Official Editor will, at an annual sale, sell surplus stock to members, or persons on the waiting list, at such reasonable prices as he may set, the net proceeds being turned over to the treasury.

4.2 If it appears that the treasury will lack funds to cover the cost of the next mailing, the secretary-treasurer can notify the membership of an equal assessment on all members, sufficient to meet expected costs and provide a small reserve. Members not paying the assessment will not receive that mailing until they pay the assessment, within a time limit of six months.

5. MAILINGS: 5.1 The Official Editor shall send out identical bundles to all members immediately following the mailing dates. The mailing dates are the second saturday in November, February, May and August.

5.2 When necessary in order to get information to the members, officers may make mailings at FAPA expense between regular mailing dates. Other publications sent in by members may be distributed with such mailings if those members agree to pay any additional cost involved. The Official Editor, as an individual, and other members, sometimes send publications to the members at other times. The expense of such unofficial mailings is not chargeable to the treasury.

5.3 Fanzines distributed between regular mailing dates are counted as postmailings to the preceeding mailing under these conditions:

5.31 Identical mailings have been sent to all members at substantially the same time, and additional copies, to bring the total to 68, have been furnished the Official Editor.

5.32 The publication satisfies sections 5.52 through 5.54.

5.4 Members are not obligated to distribute their fanzines through FAPA, but all items included in the mailing are produced at the publisher's expense and free to the members, being considered as exchanges.

5.5 Publications in the Official Editor's hands by the mailing date shall be included in the quarterly bundle if they meet these requirements:

5.51 Sixty-eight copies (to provide a margin for error) are furnished.

5.52 They are printed, mimeographed, hektographed, dittoed, photographed, or legibly reproduced in some other way that gives a sufficient number of identical copies.

5.53 The 68 copies are identical in size, artwork, typography, wording, etc, except for serial numbering, if desired.

5.54 They represent to a substantial extent the work of the member who sends them in.

5.55 They conform to the requirements for second, third, &/or 4th class postage.

5.56 While some relation to fantasy or fandom is desirable, there is no restriction on the type of material except that it may not violate federal law. If such a violation comes to his attention, the Official Editor shall exclude the item from the mailing.

5.57 They do not require special packaging. Material which requires special packaging due to its size, shape or weight may be mailed separately by the OE at the expense of the member submitting the material. The OE is not obligated to provide this service.

6. OFFICERS: 6.1 The following officers are elected annually from the membership:

6.11 The President. He has general direction of the FAPA's affairs. He appoints members to fill vacated offices, appoints a teller for the annual elections, and may appoint auxilliary officials for other purposes. He has whatever power is necessary to deal with situations not otherwise covered by this constitution.

6.12 The Vice-President. He becomes President if the presidency is vacated. In case of a controversy over the meaning of this constitution, after two or more sides have been formally presented by others, the Vice-President shall decide, and his decision is binding. He conducts an annual egoboo poll and furnishes the results to the Official Editor for inclusion in the FANTASY AMATEUR.

6.13 The Secretary-Treasurer. He receives membership applications, renewals, and filings for office. He keeps track of members' standings in regard to renewal credentials. Each quarter he shall send the Official Editor a list of members' names and addresses, an identification of the credentials of new members, a report of income and outgo, and other information within the scope of his duties. He shall furnish the Official Editor information for preparing the ballot. He must keep FAPA's funds separate from his own, in cash or deposit. At the end of his term he shall turn over the records and funds to his successor. The Secretary-Treasurer must be at least 21 years of age.

6.14 The Official Editor. He shall assemble and send out the mailing. He has custody of the surplus stock. He shall publish election ballots and the official organ, THE FANTASY AMATEUR. THE FANTASY AMATEUR shall appear in each quarterly mailing and shall contain information about postmailings, a list of the current mailing's contents, the reports of the various officials, the text of any proposals to be voted on, and other appropriate material at the Official Editor's discretion. The constitution shall be included in THE FANTASY AMATEUR not less often than once every six months.

6.2 Each officer serves until his successor is elected and notified, unless he first resigns, loses his membership, or is expelled from office.

6.3 Although each officer is responsible for the duties indicated, he may have the help of others in performing them.

6.4 In the absence of a formal controversy, each officer may decide for himself doubtful points concerning his duties.

7. ELECTIONS: 7.1 Elections are held by mail. Candidates whose names are to appear on the ballot must file with the secretary-treasurer in writing. The ballots shall be included in the summer (August) mailing, except that ballots for use of overseas members shall be mailed to them first class or airmail at the time the summer mailing is posted.

7.2 All votes, to be counted, must be in the teller's hands a month after the mailing is dispatched. The teller shall notify all members of the results of the election within two weeks after the ballot deadline.

7.3 A plurality is sufficient to elect.

7.4 No person can be elected President, or Vice-President, more than once in five years.

8. AMENDMENTS: Proposed amendments to this constitution, in writing, endorsed by four members, no more than two of whom are officers, shall be submitted to vote. The proposers shall send a copy, with the signatures, to the President, and other copies to the other officers. The gist of the amendment must be given in THE FANTASY AMATEUR before it comes up for a vote. Unless the President orders a special vote, amendments shall be voted on at the annual election. A majority of the votes must be favorable for the amendment to be adopted, and such majority must be more than 1/4 of the membership.

9. SPECIAL RULES: 9.1 Special rules may be adopted at any time a majority of the members endorse a copy of the proposal, if the proposal has been sent to the entire membership at substantially the same time. Such special rules may refuse applicants, expel members, remove officers, override official acts, suspend sections of this constitution, or do anything else within the sovereignty of the organization.

9.2 The Vice-President shall distribute, with the annual egoboo poll, and as a part thereof, an official form on which the members may list names of waiting-listers to whom they object. The Vice-President informs the Secretary-Treasurer of the results of this portion of the poll and does not tabulate it as part of the egoboo poll. Any waiting-lister objected to by ten or more of the voters in this poll is dropped from the waiting-list and may not apply again for admission for one year.

Correction: Section 3.5 should read: On endorsement of 12 other members, a member will be granted an extension of one mailing to fulfill renewal requirements on a particular occasion. (Etc.)

"Requirements" was miscopied to "credentials" back around FA 97 or so, and the error continued by succeeding publications of the Constitution.

The following Constitutional amendment, proposed by Alan J. Lewis, will be voted on in the August mailing:

"Proposed to revise 2nd sentence of Section 3.1 to read as follows:

"Renewal credentials consist of contributions in the form of verse, fiction or non-fiction, or contributions as the editor or publisher in a real sense, of one or more fantasy amateur publications (fanzines). These must total at least eight 8.5"x11" pages or the equivalent in page area."

The object is to eliminate the present reference of Sect 3.1 which defines renewal credentials per Sects 2.21 and 2.22, which at some time in the past were amended so that it now reads that for renewal a non-publishing member would have to appear in two different zines not published in the same metropolitan area. Some fun, eh Tucker, Agberg, and others?

EGOBOO POLL RESULTS

23 voters took part in this section of the Poll, though 2 or 3 gave only token votes [one name per category and only in part of the categories]. Besides the voters listed in the report on the Special Voting, 3 more tried but not quite soon enough to meet the deadline: Morse, McPhail & Bennett.

A recheck of my Absolutely Foolproof Tabulating System turned up a mere 6 errors. These have been corrected and I hope there aren't too many undetected ones.

And now to business; the results:

VICE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

No question of Constitutional interpretation has been presented formally by two or more sides for a Veepnal decision, which would be binding according to Section 6.12. If this goes on we will be reduced to ambulance-chasing.

The best we can offer, this time, is an advisory opinion. A proposed amendment was scouted through here containing a one-shot ["not to be retained as a permanent part of the Constitution"] provision to make it a little bit retroactive. Well, I once had a brainstorm of this very sort, myself; I was told firmly that any such gimmick was nothing more nor less than a Special Rule, thus requiring 33 signatures. The principle still seems to hold.

If and when A J Lewis gets his amendment whipped into shape to correct some long-standing discrepancies between Sections 2.21, 2.22, and 3.1, we urge you all to vote for it, whether or not we are early enough in line to help sponsor it. Nothing political in this; it's a simple matter of the various Sections being out of line with each other by way of ancient oversight.

All the experts predict a great upturn in business during the next quarter.

Non-Egoboo Results of the Poll: Ballots were received from 25 memberships: Ballard, Boggs, Brown, Busbys, Calkins, Caughran, Chauvenet, Coxes, Donaho, Eney, Evans, Hansen, Harness; Kemp, Lewis, Lichtman, Metcalf, Moskowitz, Pavlat, Pelz, Raeburn, Sneary, Speer, Tucker and Warner.

The voting on the Special Rule to reinstate Edgar Martin under Section 9.1 was as follows: 9 in favor; 14 opposed; 2 abstaining.

Under Section 9.2 a majority (14 of 25) of the ballots cast objected to Waitlister Walter Breen; accordingly, as was the case with Wetzell, "Lance," Myers, and Higgs, he draws a year's Limbo as provided by Section 9.2

- - - F. M. & E. Busby

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

1. The Ed Martin Case. I understand from a recent phone call to the Busbys that out of a total of 25 votes received in the Egoboo Poll, 9 people were in favor of the special rule to reinstate Martin, 14 were against, 2 did not vote one way or another, and rather prominently missing among the voters were many of the people who have screamed most distressingly about the Martin Muddle over these all-too-many months. I once thought we would eventually see the end of the Martin controversy once this plethora of polls had proven to the hard-headed few how the majority of FAPA members felt about the situation, but I begin to believe now that I was in error. Apparently those people who wrote the most in terms of length and passion concerning Martin were interested not nearly so much in his reinstatement or the moral principles involved as they were in finding something to write about and thereby produce page-count for their own membership requirements. This lack of support should do much towards easing the consciences of the honest people within FAPA who have been plagued with second thoughts and self-doubt about whether or not Martin was treated illegally in the first place.

2. The Walter Breen Case: should just about settle the Martin Matter by providing a much more interesting and juicy bone upon which to gnaw...undoubtedly with the same lack of results in the case of Breen as the supporters of Martin afforded him. A total of 14 negative votes (or 'blackballs' if you prefer) out of a grand total of 25 ballots cast is a pretty clear percentage.

Any and every artificial organization created out of the minds of men to serve any sort of purpose for any specific group of people has a certain number of pre-requisites to membership. Perhaps I have even restricted myself too severely in imposing these limitations...even as unartificial a grouping as the 'human race' has pre-requisites to membership, as witness numerous anthropological arguments from time to time as to whether or not various types of early anthropoids rate the classification homo, or even the current struggle the American Negro is undertaking in the minds of many men who grew up within a certain type of environment in what we loosely term The South.

Be that as it may, at the moment the prerequisites to membership in FAPA are: 1) that an applicant be able to prove that he is interested in fantasy amateur activity as per Section 2.2 of the Constitution; 2) that he has two or three bucks to spare as defined in Sections 2.3 and 4.1; AND 3) that he is not objected to by 10 or more of the voters in the annual egoboo poll as per Section 9.2. It seems to me altogether reasonable and proper that the members of FAPA should set these or indeed any sort of prerequisites that they as an organization deem advisable. Individual members within the organization will not agree with all of these prerequisites, naturally, just as within any organization run by an approximately democratic process, such as, for example, the United States, the rules and by-laws which a majority of the people find equitable will be objectionable to a certain number of the persons comprising the other half of the coin, the minority. Within this minority there is a certain type of mind which says: "I did not personally make this law, therefore if I find it unbearable I do not have to abide by it" ...whether it be income tax, the draft, the taking of human life, or the fact that ten objecting votes will remove any person's name from the FAPA waiting list for a year. Fortunately this type of mind is very much in the minority, and thus we have a bearable number of irresponsible malcontents within the socio-legal-economic framework of the United States and an equally bearable one or two persons within the membership of FAPA.

Walter Breen has failed to satisfy the prerequisites of Section 9.2 of the Constitution and has therefore duly been denied membership at this time. Due to the nature of the situation and the many purely personal factors intimately involved, it seems obvious to me at this time that a great deal of discussion will be generated over the matter in the near future, and while undoubtedly a certain amount of the discussion will be literate, intelligent, and interesting, at least an equally large amount (by an estimate so conservative as to be laughable) will be purely the translation of cranial energy to heat with very little light evolved in the process. I will further to say that most of this discussion -- of both types -- will concern itself with the motives of the 14 persons objecting to the presence of Walter Breen as a fellow FAPA member as well as the ethics involved in the composition of those motives.

As President of FAPA I would merely like to take this opportunity to point out to the membership that the Constitution does not require that a member have any sort of reason for objecting to the admission of a potential member, let alone a good reason, and that the legality of Section 9.2 is in no way concerned with the motives or the ethics of the ten objecting voters. I would also like to observe at this time that Section 9.1 is quite as legal and quite as available as 9.2 and exists solely for the purpose of affording a majority of the members of this organization the means to shape FAPA into any form they so desire.

However, I strongly suspect that in the case of Walter Breen, as in the case of Ed Martin, indignation alone will not suffice without sincerity.
