62 pages, DTP.

Fanthology '87 — Ed. & pub. by Richard Brandt for Corflu 8, El Paso, 1991;
78 pages, DTP.

Fanthology '88 — Ed. by Mike Glyer, pub. by S.C.I.F.I. for Corflu 9, Los Angeles, 1992;
76 pages, xerocopy.

Fanthology '89 — Ed. & pub. by Andrew Hooper, Corflu 10, 21 May 1993, Madison WI.;
64 pages, DTP.

Fanthology '90 — Ed. by Mark Loney, pub. by D. & N. Lynch, for Corflu 11, 20 May '94;
84 pages, DTP

The production of anthologies of fan writing has been sporadic, to say the least; the five listed above, and indexed here, compose the longest consecutive annual series. Additions to it will (with luck) be included in future versions, as will some or all of the prior collections as access to them is obtained.

The following listing includes all of the earlier general fanwriting collections of which I'm (currently) aware:

Best of Fandom 1957 (Guy Terwilleger); Best of Fandom 1958 (Guy Terwilleger); (Fanthology?) 1964 (Mike Domina & Terry Carr (pub. 1972)); (Fanthology?) 1975 (Bruce Arthurs); (Fanthology?) 1976 (Victoria Vayne); Fanthology '81 (Nielson Hayden; By British (British fanwriting of the '70s, selected & edited by Ian Maule & Joseph Nicholas, published in 1979); Mood 70 ("...an alternate selection of British fanwriting").

By the next updated version of this Index (probably soon after the Las Vegas Corflu in 1995), I hope to be able to include some information concerning the availability of those issues of Fanthology that are not yet Out of Print but (as usual with fanzines) the print-runs were generally small and the stocks can be expected to be limited. Maybe that next version will also be more carefully proofread, and contain an introductory article concerning these collections of reprints of fanzine material. Meanwhile, comments and suggestions are solicited, and it should be noted that a (rather) large-print version of this Index is available, as are separate, individual Indexes of these five issues of Fanthology , and an index to the first 15 issues of Mimosa, with a few others "in progress".

Don Fitch, 29 Nov 94.
