

Batman is becoming increasingly more tiring. Although I did enjoy last night's show, with the Return of the Riddler, I'm beginning to believe that it is becoming less satiric, less camp as one might say. As one reviewer said, or at least to paraphrase one reviewer "Refreshing in small doses, but after a short while it becomes just plain Bhad."

RUSS BROOKER: (this disty of all things) I liked your "Poeme" a lot the first time I read it, but on second reading it showed no excess of skill. The problem with it is the same as with most Dylan. Altho it is so far out it appears it must have some underlying moral, even tho it doesn't. At least, Russ, make the whole poem revolve around one idea, topic, etc.

Oh yes Russ, I like the story!

FRED WHITLEDGE: I can see your point in not taking us to LASFS Fred, & sympathize. But still, LASFS every week is about all that keeps me running.

STEVE SAJO: Finally I've found a Marvel parody that is as bad as the one in our first GALOOT!

galoot

No. 5 is Mongoose
 Pub No. 17 from Jim
 Keith, 2834 Santez Dr.,
 Pomona, Calif. 91766

Feb.25 on channel 13 will debut the first in a series of old "Flash Gordon" feature length movies. The first in this series is Death Ray From Mars. This is not the Flash Gordon TV show retitled, but instead the original serial turned into feature length, with Buster Crabbe.

Anyone in the Valley Area contact one of the "Pomona Bunch" if you would be interested in attending ValsFA (Valley SF Association). First order of business: Auction this Friday.

Coming Attractions: In the future, GALOOT will have the first segment of the new series by Russ Brooker.

Thanks this issue go to Russ Berger for stenciling & also to the Corflu Kid (Schu) for typing/typoing this issue. (( Another example of my inimitable sarcasm (it always gets the best of him)).

---Jim K

P.S.---The reasons I commented mostly on "Pomona Fandom" this time was I just had a bit of time to scan last disty.

