SCIENCE FICTION AND FANTASY

AVALON BOOKS and BOUREGY & CURL

INTRODUCTION

AVALON BOOKS is a generally underrated set of 136 science fiction and fantasy books published by Bouregy & Curl (later Thomas Bouregy & Company, Inc.) under the editorship of Robert A. W. Lowndes, a noted editor in the science fiction pulps of the forties and fifties. The series began in August, 1956, with the publication of Eric Frank Russell's Three to Conquer and continued, generally on a monthly basis, until Stanton A. Coblentz' The Day the World Stopped was published in August, 1968. This listing also includes two books printed earlier under the imprint of Bouregy & Curl.

AVALON BOOKS was apparently intended primarily for the library trade and the books were issued with plastic covers over the dust jackets. (COLLECTORS BEWARE: The black edging of the plastic covers often rubs off onto the covers and fly papers of the books, and many of the dust jackets have become rippled due to the tightness of the plastic covers. I strongly recommend that the original plastic covers be discarded and replaced by non-damaging ones, such as the adjustable BRO-DART.)

The quality of the writing is very uneven, running from excellent to barely readable. (And that from a person who even liked some of the LASER BOOKS!) The better writing tended to be the novels reprinted from the magazines of the forties and fifties by the better known authors such as L. Sprague de Camp, Lester del Rey and Eric Frank Russell. And of historical value and quite often still readable today, are the reprints of stories by authors such as Stanton A. Coblentz, Ray Cummings, Otis Adelbert Kline and Captain (now Colonel) S. P. Meek from the twenties and thirties. Little need be said about the original novels written for AVALON BOOKS by unknown authors during the sixties; based on my limited sampling, few are worth reading today.

Except for the books by Poul Anderson, L. Sprague de Camp, Eric Frank Russell and Jack Vance, most of these books can be located for less than $10.00 and often less than $5.00, in fine condition. There is quite a lot of good reading in AVALON BOOKS, so "HAPPY COLLECTING."

COLLATOR'S NOTE

The information set forth in this listing is based on my own collection. The order of publication has been established from various sources and verified by review slips, when available. In the later books, I have indicated the year of publication followed by a sequence number instead of the month and year normally shown since I have not been able to establish which months were skipped in those years. Further, I have had to assume the original price for a few books when the corner of the dust jacket showing the price had been clipped from my copy.
