THE F A P A INDEX

Well, I couldn't finish the whole thing in time for the January mailing after all. But since the first section, no more and no less, is already on the stencils, you may as well have it now. Especially since a select few of you may have some corrections or additions to make to the list.

The rest of the Index, which you'll get next time, will contain brief descriptions of the publications, including information as to their publishers, plus other useful data on FAPA's history gleaned from various sources. It sounds as if it will be much bigger than this section, but I sure hope not.

When you have the whole thing (including a cover which I'll make) you may bind it yourself. I'm saving staples, and besides I'm la--- but let's not get maudlin, eh?

For better or for worse,
Lawrence Trinitrotulouene (sp?)
Destiny (Shaw)
