This month KAYMAR TRADER is being mimeoed at an address different from the one you may have grown accustomed to. The new address is 7234 Baltimore, Kansas City 14, Mo. Be certain to mail ads to this new address. The price, of both ads and magazine, and the name have not been changed. Neither has the deadline, the 15th of each preceeding month. All material in before that date will be in the next issue. If I am ahead of myself in work, material in after the 15th is apt to be seen in the next issue, but I cannot promise this. By the way, the date of material is the day I receive it, not by the post-mark.

I wish to give many thanks to JOHN W. MURDOCK, a fan here in town, for cutting the headings, not to mention running the cover. He is the Assistant Editor.

To all our advertizers: Be sure that your ad will fit on one page (or how many you desire). If there is more than can be put on a page, I will cut the material to fit, unless the ad is marked with a plus sign (+ for typers). This will mean that I can place the left-over portion of your ad on a following page, and bill you for the extra space.

That's it for my first month, and I just want to remind you to get your two dollars in to:

13th WORLD SCIENCE FICTION CONVENTION
P.O. Box 508 Edgewater Branch
Cleveland 7,
Ohio.

if you magazine collectors need magazines from 1951 to the present to fill up those open holes in your collection, or if you merely want a certain copy of a magazine which contains a story you missed and want to read, send a list to me, and I will check my stock of old magazines of all kinds. Any magazine for only 20¢ post paid! It's a bargain you can't afford to miss. If I find your mag, it will be sent automatically, but if I don't, I'll drop you a line, and when I do find it, I will write to see if you still want it. HOW CAN YOU MISS??

A MATTER OF INTEREST - R.W. Chambers. COSMOPOLITAN July-Aug. 1897. Pt. 1, July 1897. The protagonist, walking around Lonely Pine Inlet, surprises a young woman engaged in a similar business. She speaks of certain impressions her father is studying, and requests that he keep to the dunes, as the desired footprints are on the beach proper. He shortly learns that the young lady is the sister of one of his best friends, who takes him to his palaeontologist father, before whom he succeeds in making a fool of himself, by pretending interest in fossils; however, Mr. Holroyd - for such is his name - detains him because of his exceptionally good eyesight. The next day he sees two interesting - but very disconnected - things: a papier-mache dinosaur and an elephant rigle; he is instructed to carry the latter and leave the former alone; moreover, he is enjoined to watch the ocean, carefully, day by day, for a Thermosaurus, which, it is explained, is a sort of amphibious reptile, extinct since the Cretaceous. However, Professor Helryd has learned that there is one available at present, somewhere nearby. The bullets of his gun have streamers of palladium attached, so that in moving they string it out behind them. By this device they hope to anchor the Thermosaurus if it is dead, or both kill and anchor it if alive.

Pt. 2, Aug. 1897. The professor shows up and explains why the protagonist is expected to mount his vigil, as calculations shew the creature to be approaching. Holroyd explains that no one must venture on the beach because of the presence of certain monstrous birds whose survival is associated with that of the sea-monster. As they are swimming in the surf a few days later they are attacked by one of these monsters, but escape to the boilers which Holroyd has caused to be set up along the beach as refuges. One of the laborers, Frisby, is attacked by one of the birds, but is saved by the hero, who wounds it and anchors it to a tree by means of the wires which are attached to his bullets. Returning to his post, he shoots and anchors the Thermosaurus, but is set upon by its exert of birds and barely escapes with his life; however, he loses consciousness because of his wounds at their hands. Waking, he learns that the Thermosaurus is safe but that all the birds, including his anchored and wounded victim, have escaped. He, of course, marries Miss Holroyd.

This is quite a nice story, and is recommended to almost anyone, but the professor has an amazing lack of basic knowledge of his field.

TUNNEL NUMBER SIX - Derby. BLACK CAT June 1897. Mysterious voices are heard in a tunnel of magnetic ore, and the theory is advanced that they are the voices of men in other mines some how transmitted by some unspecified property of the ore. However, the miners are convinced they are ghosts and reject the very unlikely hypothesis advanced by the management. Pointless and not very interesting.

THE ARKHAM SAMPLER --- THE ARKHAM SAMPLER --- THE ARKHAM SAMPLER

The ARKHAM SAMPLER was an experimental magazine of fantasy, weird, and science fiction material published in 1948 and 1949 by August Derleth of Arkham House Publishers, Sauk City, Wis. Any one who has seen or owns any of the Arkham House books, which include such sought-after items as Lovecraft's OUTSIDER & OTHERS and BEYOND THE WALL OF SLEEP, and Clark Ashton Smith's OUT OF SPACE & TIME, knows that Derleth's publications need no buildup. They're always top printing jobs. And the SAMPLER is no exception!

THE ARKHAM SAMPLER appeared for 8 issues on a quarterly basis and was printed and page numbered in such a manner that it is ideal for binding purposes. Each issue ran 100 pages, had trimmed edges, and large, clear type. It originally sold for $1 a copy, Arkham House currently sells them for $5 per set of 4. The best news from Arkham House is that the supply of copies is virtually exhausted.

We have obtained a number of 1949 issues in fine condition and are offering them to our customers at reduced prices. THE ARKHAM SAMPLER was published in very limited quantities -- far fewer copies of each issue exist than probably any other professional fantasy magazine. They are already collector's items and in the months and years to come will no doubt become extremely rare. We wholeheartedly recommend them to you. This offer expires Mar. 15, 1955.

DO YOU HAVE TARZAN

TARZAN comic strips, that is. I will trade S&F magazines, or old PRINCE VALIANT Sunday stripes for them. In fact, I want the old TARZAN Sunday comic strips to the point where I'll even pay for them. Send all letters concerning this to me right away to:

Fred Cook
912 1/2 Slayton Street
Grand Haven,
Michigan

MICHAEL R. BIRRELL, 33a NORTH STREET, ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA, SUSSEX, ENG.

I WILL TRADE

MAGAZINES.

I will exchange the following British pocket books & magazines, all in good to new condition, one-for-one with any American EBs of fantasy or SF in the same condition. Don't bother to write, just send what you have and state which of mine you require in return, but please do list a second choice in case the first one has gone.

FANS! Would you like to help a big project? I am starting a drive to send magazines and books to France to help the fans overseas. I have met some French boys and they tell me they like sf and many of their friends do. However, American magazines are hard to get. This is true in other countries too. If you will help, drop me a postcard, and pledge support. Then in a later issue of KF I will give the address of those in foreign countries to whom you are to send something. A magazine, a book. Think how little it means to you, and how much it will mean to someone else. The Editor.

FOR SALE

ASTOUNDINGS and only ASTOUNDINGS (Astounding Science Fiction)

The numbers in brackets are the quantity of these magazines that I have on hand for sale at the bargain prices indicated. No order less than $ 1.00 will be accepted. Send Cash, Money order or U.S. postage stamps in payment. All magazines in good condition with both covers. A very few have taped spines. I will select the best I have for each order, on a first come-first served basis. No returns.
