ROBERT W. FRANSON
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

Science Fiction Review appears every other week with timely reviews of science fiction books, magazines, and paperbacks.

SFR also prints short articles of interest to science fiction readers, such as: "My Favorite So Far," by Poul Anderson; "The Origins of Books," by Andre Norton; and "Reverie," by Murray Leinster. Many other articles by top science fiction names are planned for future issues.

Also included from time to time is news of interest that has not yet appeared in the science fiction magazines, such as the announcement of forthcoming stories and books by prominent authors, news of the next World Science Fiction Convention, and such articles as "Nova Eclipsed," by John Carnell (giving the reasons for the discontinuance of the two British magazines New Worlds and Science Fantasy).

Especially liked are SFR's timely articles on science fiction series, which include all appearances of all stories in such series as "The Med Service Series" (Leinster), "The Time Agent Series" (Norton), "Nicholas van Rijn" (Anderson), "Sir Kenneth Malone" (Phillips), "The Future History Series" (Heinlein), etc.

HERE IS WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT SFR:

"Interesting magazine." —Poul Anderson

"...a fine job." —Gordon R. Dickson

"Very helpful." —Andre Norton

"Excellent...the most timely report on what's new and what it's like that I have seen." —P. Schuyler Miller, "The Reference Library," Analog

"...about the only thorough coverage of the new stuff, and does a worthwhile job." —Donald R. Bensen, Editor, Pyramid Books
