In Brief -
* -- As a double-issue, this issue is, of course, 50¢ (25¢ is for single-issues).

@ -- Numbered "SI-1" through "SI-4".

Hope we have enough copies of this issue to go around; ran short of the pages Bill ran off.... If we have enough copies those WSFA members having more than two WSFA issues remaining on their subs will get it as WSFA Issue #212/222. ## Another in a series of post-England catch-up issues; #'s 163-172 are also on stencil, waiting publication as soon as Bill can get the ink (catch-up issues end with #168; #169/170 deals with things rec'd in Oct., and #171/172 deals with the 1-15 Nov. period). Biweekly double-issues will continue into Jan., when we hope TWJ will start at least bi-monthly publication, and SOTWJ will slow down considerably (we hope...). We were planning an editorial on the financial situation (prices are now close to the point where SOTWJ is costing us 4¢ a page....) and on new sub policy for start of '75 (2¢/page basic rate, w/adjustment up (1¢ or more) for postage or downward (so many pages) for TWJ). Much more later, when space permits. ## Pages 1 & 2 of this issue were typed & run off Nov. 23; rest of 'zine was typed much earlier, & run off a couple of days ago. ## Dan Alderson won the bidding for CHALLENGE FROM BEYOND ($10 top bid); we hope he enjoys the 'zines. ## We apologize to any of you who may have ordered back-issues & misc. items from us; our paperwork was in an awful mess after our U.K. trip, and we are only just now getting things in order. If you have sent $ for anything from us and it doesn't come soon, drop us a reminder, please. ## We'll publish new TWJ staff addresses shortly; after Jan. 1 '75, all material should go to the appropriate Section Editors, if possible. (We will still serve as a centralized mail-drop, but this will delay your material getting into print.)

SOTWJ is pubbed 2-4 times/month; subs: 25¢ (10p) ea. (50¢/20p for double-issues), 10/$2 (12/\frac{1}{2}\) or 12/$2.50 overseas); subs incl. TWJ, prorated vs. SOTWJ sub according to length (TWJ #84; out in 2-4 weeks, will count as 6 or 7 SOTWJ's, most likely, so be forewarned to keep your SOTWJ subs far enoughahead if you want it). For info on ads, Overseas Agents, Trade-Subs, etc., write ed. Address Code meaning in SOTWJ#149 (& 163/164); for now, note info slip attached to pg. 3, if appropriate).

ESFA Report (Minutes of the Eastern S.F. Assoc. Meeting of 3/11/74) --

The meeting was opened at 3:22 p.m. with an attendance of 19 persons. The Secretary's minutes and Treasurer's report were given and accepted. The Treasurer requested authorization to withdraw $25.00 from the bank. The members voted the authorization on motion by Mike Fogaris and second by Sam Moskowitz.

Director Pierce mentioned the death of P. Schuyler Miller, and added that Lester del Rey would take over "The Reference Library" in ANALOG. Sam Moskowitz will have a 3200-word biographical sketch on Miller in the Feb. 1975 issue. Sam also said that Miller's sister, his sole heir, will have his books brought to Philadelphia, where they will be catalogued while she makes a decision as to their disposal. Moskowitz told the club that Otto Binder, 63, died on October 20. Binder had left Sam his correspondence. Sam said that Lyle Engel may reprint some of Binder's fiction. There was no old or new business.

The guest speaker was Raymond Z. Gallun who brought along complimentary copies of his latest book, The Eden Cycle, a novel published by Ballantine at $1.25. Gallun reminisced, told anecdotes and answered questions. For those who might be curious, he said his middle name is Zinke. He was born in Beaver Dam, Wisc., March 22, 1910. Among authors he liked in his early reading were Edgar Rice Burroughs and H.G. Wells. He also read WEIRD TALES from its earliest issues, and AMAZING STORIES from its second. During the depression years he worked on farms, in a shoe factory, and a hemp mill. In 1938 and 1939 he was in Paris giving English lessons to refugees and working with a group unofficially trying to aid Jews to get out of Germany.

In answer to a question, Mr. Gallun said that at the time he was not aware that he was helping to take SF in new directions with his early stories. With "Old Faithful", for instance, he was just trying to write an original story. Up until then Martians were generally depicted as inimical, and he asked himself the question: what if they are friendly? Mr. Gallun has no opinions to offer on his work of the '30's and '40's, as he said it reads to him now as if someone else wrote it. With retirement he has returned to writing. He finds it easier to write now, but ideas are harder to come by. In the old days a writer could get away with more. He did say that he always tried hard to be accurate with the environments in his stories, believing that any gift or ability of a creature depends on his needs.

As an aside, Mr. Gallun mentioned that it was his father-in-law, Dr. Max Talmey, an eye surgeon who was also interested in artificial languages, who presented Albert Einstein with his first advanced mathematics books. Ballantine will bring out a collection of Gallun's short stories, with an introduction by Fred Pohl.

The meeting adjourned at 5:12 p.m.

-- ALLAN HOWARD, Secretary ESFA

THE LOCAL SCENE

Isis Center Nows -- The Center is sponsoring an ongoing UFO Forum on the 4th Monday evening of ea. month; admission is free, but donations are accepted for the Center's UFO Research; starting time is 8 p.m. The Center is located at 8313 Fenton St., Silver Spring, MD. First meeting was on 28 Oct. ("War of the World Commemoration--a Study in Zenophobia"); next meetings are on Nov. 25 ("The Tropics: Focus of the Ancient Astronaut Hypothesis"; speaker: Stuart Greenwood, U. of Md. Instructor in Aerospace Engineering), and Dec. 23 (special Xmas party & program--"Come and discover where Santa REALLY comes from!"). December Forums on other subjects are: Dec. 2 (Color films on Madame Blavatsky & Yoga training); Dec. 9 ("The April Videc"-Friends of the Sacred Hopi White Indian Community"). The Center also offers many December Astrology Workshops: "Astrology & Health" (Dec. 7), "The Moon & the Emotions" (Dec. 14), "Esoteric Astrology" (Dec. 21), and others. For details on any Center events, write them at POBox 512, Silver Spring, MD 20907, or call 585-2886.

A series of lectures examining the concepts and nature of time is being given at the U. of Md.'s College Park campus. No further details in our files. DON D'AMMASSA, Reviewer:

Angel of the Revolution, by George Griffith (Hyperion Press) -- This enormous 1894 novel is a detailed account of a world war in which the introduction of aircraft becomes the decisive force. Griffith's depiction of flight is, naturally, inaccurate; his airships are seagoing vessels with rotor blades, powered by scientific doubletalk. The hero, inventor of the aircraft, is a member of the Terrorist, a secret organization which hopes to create a world government out of the chaos of war. Griffith claims to be a Utopian Socialist, but the book reeks of nihilism. Philosophically, Griffith is bankrupt. A Patriotic Briton, he just can't bear to let the British Fleet be defeated, even facing insuperable odds. The Terrorists' leader naturally assumes that the governing body of the new order will be composed of Anglo-Saxons, this despite the fact that he himself is a Jew. Despite Griffith's anti-Americanism (representative government in the U.S. is "a sham and a fraud"), his ideological self-contradictions, and the inaccuracy of many of his predictions, he writes a good novel, and Angel of the Revolution has many fascinating glimpses of the 19th-century viewpoint. Even at $4.75 for the paperback, this is probably worth it.

Olga Romanoff, by George Griffith (Hyperion Press) -- George Griffith, not content with subjugating all of the inferior races to the Anglo-Saxons in Angel of the Revolution, utterly destroys them all in this sequel. A descendant of the last Tsar of Russia, Olga Romanoff steals the secret of air travel and with her partner, the Sultan of Turkey, raises an enormous army to throw off the benevolent dictatorship of the Anglo-Saxons. The war is in its height when it is learned that a comet is on a collision course with Earth. The good guys hide under ground while the villains and everyone else are incinerated. They then emerge to build the perfect society--Anglo-Saxon, of course. This novel is nowhere near as well-written as Griffith's other book from Hyperion. The plot is forced, the racism more apparent, the love interest more insipid, and the scientific accuracy more distant. I suppose it's nice to have the set, but I wouldn't buy this expecting the quality of Angel of the Revolution.

City of Endless Night, by Milo Hastings (Hyperion Press) -- World War One has resulted in Germany's retreat underground, with a fortified and virtually invulnerable Berlin their only outlet to the surface. A young chemist inadvertently wanders into the besieged city after a century and finds a repulsive autocratic society. The bulk of the book supplies illustrations of the various excesses of autocracy, nationalism, and the military outlook. Hastings is an adequate writer, but this fifty-year-old novel shares the major fault of most of the Utopian Socialist novels--endless pedantry. This is of interest to collectors and historians only.

CHRIS LAMPTON, Reviewer:

The R-Master, by Gordon Dickson (Lippincott; 173) -- By the 21st Century the world community is a paradise, a veritable Utopia. Everyone has everything he needs. It's no longer necessary to work for a living -- everything one could possibly want is supplied by the government. One man, however, realizes that things are not as rosy as they seem, and sets out to change the status quo all by himself. ## Sound familiar? You say you've read the same novel four times since last Tuesday? You probably have. And guess what? Gordie Dickson has gone and written it again. So how come, if the idea is so trite and overworked, am I staying up to three in the ayem waiting to see how the damned thing comes out? You probably know the answer to that one already. It's because Gordie is a hell of a good writer, and no matter how cliched and/or inconsequential the idea he can probably put it through some changes that you've never seen before. ## This time it involves an intelligence-stimulating drug called Resinase-47. It doesn't raise the intelligence terribly much, except in a few rare cases where the user finds himself suddenly converted into a super-genius, the R-Master of the title. Our Hero finds himself transformed into an R-Master. and his heightened intelligence starts noticing things it isn't supposed to; before you know it he's heading up the Resistance Movement and taking on the world government almost singlehandedly. ## It's (Over) a lot of fun, really. Don't be misled, though--it's very minor Dickson. I'd guess that it's a juvenile, judging from the cartoonish book-jacket. But it's never boring, and it reads fast enough to polish off at one sitting, so don't let that put you off.

WARREN JOHNSON, Reviewer:

Saving Worlds, ed. Roger Elwood & Virginia Kidd (Doubleday: $6.95) -- Let me begin by stating that this is not a collection of space-opera stories where the hero goes around saving planet after planet from the big, mean BEM invaders, as the title might indicate; rather, this is about ecology, and how we can save our planet (if one considers it worth saving, i.e.). This will probably be the last original anthology (or any kind of anthology, unless it's compiled by an historian) about ecology. The ecology movement is just about dead. There are almost no local recycling centers around any more--there is just no interest. Although there were some fanatics running around (remember the Fox? Those of us who live along the Fox River remember him all too well...), there were also some intelligently concerned people in the movement who did do some constructive things, at least for a while, such as setting up centers for collecting recyclable materials. ## Getting back to the book at hand: The stories are nothing exceptional. I doubt they'll be reprinted very much (except for the poems, which are themselves reprints). There are some big names in here--van Vogt, Silverberg, Norton, Anderson, and the like. But these are by no means their best stories. I don't know if Elwood's having to do so many anthologies has lowered his standards as some fans have suggested, but these stories seem to indicate this. Since an original book carries a much higher price-tag than does a magazine (especially a hardcover book), it would seem to me that it should offer a significantly higher-quality story. But, as it turns out, that is rarely the case--and Saving Worlds is no exception. ## Not recommended very strongly.

Mystery/Suspense/Adventure/Spy --

GEORGE FERGUS, Reviewer:

The Balkan Assignment, by Joe Poyer (Pyramid 6/73; from '71 hc) -- This book is a bit old for me to review now, but the fact that Poyer has a new novel (The Chinese Agenda) out in paperback spurred me to read this in order to give him one more chance to convince me that he can write well enough for the new one to be worth getting. Unfortunately, the answer is no. ## There is nothing original in the plot: a charter pilot participates in a scheme to steal gold bullion hidden by the Nazis in Yugoslavia at the close of the war. There are plot threads involving an agent of Interpol and a cabel of neo-Nazis, but they are for the most part relegated to the background. Nor is there any real character-interplay to speak of--merely the bickering of thieves. Save your money.

The Fly on the Wall, by Tony Hillerman (Dell 12/73; from '71 hc) -- Before winning an Edgar for the Best Mystery Novel of 1973 with Dance Hall of the Dead, Hillerman was a 1971 runner-up with this novel of political corruption. A newsman covering the state legislature is murdered because of something he found out, and a colleague tries to retrace his steps without suffering the same fate. Excellently done and highly recommended.

Review Extracts (From the Press):

THE WASH. POST (21/7/74), JEAN M. WHITE, Reviewer: A Pinch of Snuff, by Michael Underwood (St. Martin's Press; $6.95; "an off-beat mystery with crackling court-room scenes and a suspenseful twist at the end"); The Dark Number, by Edward Boyd & Roger Parkes (Walker; $5.95; "a suspense thriller about a man who returns to Scotland to try to trace his former wife and root out the truth about his daughter's drowning"); Bardel's Murder (author not given) (Walker; $5.95; novel about Piron, the American private eye in London). ## THE WASH. STAR (30/9/73), Reviewer not named: Brenda's Murder, by Tobias Wells (Doubleday; $4.95; 162 pp.; "Easy, if conventional reading", featuring the wife of Ms. Well's Boston detective hero Knute Severson).

SF/Fantasy: Novels -Clone, by Richard Cowper (Avon Books, NY; pb; 9/74; orig. pub. '72 by Doubleday & Co., Inc.; 192 pp.; 95¢; cover not credited) -- "Four brothers--history's first clones--take on the omniscient authorities in the year 2072."

Ice and Iron, by Wilson Tucker (Doubleday & Co., Inc.; NY; '74; hb; 181 pp.; d.j. by Laszlo Kubinyi; $\frac{1}{2}.95$) -- ". . intriguing science fiction tale in which the vagaries of weather open the door to an unknown civilization from the past--or is it the future?" Ice age is encroaching across the earth--scientist working at edge of ice field recovers "weird assortment of artifacts that seem to appear suddenly out of thin air"; a parallel-worlds story.

Inheritors of Earth, by Gordon Eklund & Poul Anderson (Chilton Book Co., Radnor PA; '7h; based on story "Incomplete Superman" (1950); 190 pp.; d.j. by Jack Freas; $6.50) -- Alec and Anna are "Superiors, members of a race of mutant humans, all of them orphans, who possess strange mental abilities, including the capacity to receive the deeper thoughts and feelings of other men. . This is the tense and fast-moving story of how Alec and Anna learn the unsuspected truths behind their own existence and that of their race, and how these truths affect the entire future of all humanity." (Oh, yes--hb.)

The Inverted World, by Christopher Priest (Harper & Row, NY; '74; SFBC Ed.; 240 po.; hb; d.j. by Sag Harbor Art Works; five full-page illos by Andrew M. Stephenson) -- "The city of Earth is steadily winching its way forward on tracks picked up and laid anew every day, for if it were to stand still it would be swept away in the southward movement of the land itself . . . one of the most creative concepts to appear in science fiction. Priest's descriptive writing is extraordinarily effective . . . a spellbinding and totally engrossing tale."

SF/Fantasy & Related Non-Fiction -- U.K.: TELEGRAPH: Nina Bawden (18/7/74): Chimera, by John Barth (Deutsch, 12.75; "written in three related parts. The first tells the 'true' story of how Scheherazade managed to keep going for those thousand and one nights. In the second, Perseus is middle-aged and feeling past it, and in the third Bellerophon is beginning to doubt his heroic destiny. . . Marvellous stuff -- inventive and exuberant. 1. This wise and witty entertainment puts the case for imaginative fiction better than I have ever seen it put before"); 2: Adrian Berry (14/7/74): The Sphinx and the Megaliths, by John Ivimy (Turnstone Press, 12.95; "Who built Stonehenge and the other prehistoric megaliths in Britain? Why, when and how? . . . They were built . . . /the author says/ thousands of years before Christ by priests from Egypt whose motives were almost wholly political. . . This is an ingenious book, based largely on circumstantial evidence, but it reads well"); Marilyn Edwards (1/8/74): Mervyn Peake: A Biographical and Critical Exploration, by John Batchelor (Duckworth, 13.95; "Although John Batchelor in writing his new study has had to lean heavily on 'A World Away', the memoir written by Maeve Gilmore, Peake's widow, his book is welcome for at last we have a precise relation of Peake's life to his artistic development. . . The attraction of Mr. Batchelor's study lies in his splendid analysis of the strange people within and without Gormenghast and in his appreciation of Peake's use of words. What he has to say about Peake as a poet is particularly valuable as it is the poetry that reveals him as a person as well as an artist"); Janice Elliott (21/7/74): Chimera, by John Barth (Deutsch, 12.75; "John Barth writes like a drunken lexicographer who has just discovered how many words there are and is going to use them all and then make up some. He barges into his books, mangles myths, gives you one plot and just as you have the hang of that, changes course and offers another version and another. . . . For this new, three-part novel . . . he returns to his familiar source: myth and mythologically-interpreted fable. The theme -- so far as any such commonplace device can be detected -- is of 'the mortal desire for immortality', exposed through Scheherazade, Perseus and Bellerophon. . . Rationally, almost everything about Mr. Barth's work in general and this book in particular seems calculated to put off the reader and send the reviewer barking mad. . . and yet, against reason, Mr. Barth triumphs because in spite of everything he a born story-teller, a buttonholer"); The Sheep Look Up, by John Brunner (Dent, 12.95; "it is greatly to Mr. Brunner's credit that his long, zealously researched piece of speculative-cumscience fiction should both horrify and compel attention"); "G.S." (?): Prisoner of Fire, by Edmund Cooper (Hodder & Stoughton, 11.95; "In Edmund Cooper's alltoo-credible Britain of 1990, paranormal powers are thoroughly understood and exploited by the sinister Department of Human Resources. . . Despite obvious echoes of Orwell's Thought Police, Uri Geller's equivocal feats give Prisoner of Fire a shrewd relevance, which is developed in rapid, uncluttered prose").

Mystery/Suspense/Gothics -- U.S.: WASH. STAR-NEWS: Jeanne Hines (10/7/74): Gently with the Innocents, by Alan Hunter (Macmillan; $5.95; 183 pp.; "Inspector Gently makes a three-point landing in America as another delightful British detective reaches our shores. Gently is not the omnipotent-seer or all-knuckles-andluck type of detective we so often see; it's nice to follow his reasoning as well as his very human errors. . . as a bonus there's lovely lore about Elizabethan houses, nice comment on English country justice -- and a chilling ending"); A Sorry State, by Michael Kenyon (David McKay Co.-Ives Washburn, Inc.: $4.95; 189 pp.; "Hilarious crime comedy with a touch o' the shamrock to boot"); The Claverse Affair, by Janet Gregory Vermandel (Dodd, Mead; $5.95; 186 pp.; "Suspense story with emphasis on the emotional side and, as background, offers a rather comprehensive look at the drug traffic"); (date unknown): Prior Betrothal, by Elsie Lee (Arbor House; $6.95; 240 pp.; "the story skips along with the tone of a sedate French farce . . . and though it requires a bewildering series of coincidences to bring the characters to the right place at the right time, it presents a sparkling picture of a young social butterfly's first wing flutterings. It could have been called 'Launching a Butterfly from a Sticky Wicket' . . . a very beguiling if unlikely tale. Enjoyable").

SF/Fantasy & Related Non-Fiction -- U.S.: WASH. STAR-NEWS: Carol Croneberg (2/8/74): Mary Shelley's Frankenstein: Tracing the Myth, by Christopher Small Univ. of Pittsburgh Press: $9.95; 352 pp.; "requires slow and careful reading, and sometimes the use of a dictionary . . But it is an exciting inquiry into Frankenstein, into the minds and lives of the Shelleys, and into the intellectual and emotional effects of science"); Robert Evett (12/7/74): The Weekend Witch: Everywoman's Guide to Enchanting Her Man, by Lynda Lawrence (Books for Better Living: $1.25: "assumes that all women are witches, and can have whatever or whomever they want on their own terms. . . spells out some methods for keeping your man after the children are half-grown. . . a delight"); How to Make Amulets, Charms and Talismans: What They Mean and How to Use Them, by Barbara Lippman & Charles Cohen (Evans; $4.95; 208 pp.; pb; "a less enchanting /than TWW/ book (because it takes so much work) . . . However effective the charms may be, they take hours and hours of execution"); Magicians, Wizards and Sorcerers, by Daniel Cohen (Lippincott; $1.95; "a straight-forward history of witchcraft in the Western World"); (28/4/74): A History of the Devil, by William Woods (Putnam; $6.95; 251 pp.; "a study of religious beliefs in Western Europe from Paleolithic times to the present . . . challenges /Dr. Margaret Murray on her central theory, which was that the old gods had survived the coming of the new ones. . . relies heavily on authorities who were dubious even when Dr. Murray published her first book on witchcraft. . . book is a model of elegant English prose, and it is good to know that at least somebody is still sufficiently interested in old academic quarrels to continue them"); The Devil's Bride--Exorcism: Past and Present, by Martin Ebon (Harper & Row; $6.95; 245 pp.; as a parapsychologist, Ebon is "therefore committed to a belief in the existence of ESP, telepathy and telekinesis . . . /and/ consequently, holds that the phenomena have indeed taken place, and are within the province of scientific inquiry"); Encyclopedia of the Unexplained: Magic, Occultism and Parapsychology, ed. Richard Cavendish (McGraw-Hill; $17.95; 304 pp.; "is written in a clear, nononsense style, is lavishly illustrated, and much better on the subjects at hand than more conservative standard reference works"); The Next Ten Thousand Years: A Vision of Man's Future in the Universe, by Adrian Berry (Sat. Review Press; $8.95; 250 pp., incl. appendices, index & glossary; w/introd. by Robert Jastrow; "a serious book, with a huge bibliography and one of the most lucid explanations of Quantum physics available to the layman since Bertrand Russell's"); Diana McLellan (17/10/ 73): The Art of Walt Disney, by Christopher Finch (Harry N. Abrams, Inc.; $45; "The art work and color are spectacular. There are 458 pages, many of them with panoramic fold-outs. The book . . . weighs eight pounds . . . a biography of Disney . . . a Cook's Tour of animation techniques .. . ").

Mystery/Suspense, etc. -- U.K.: TIMES: H.R.F. Keating (25/7/74): The Gooseberry Fool, by James McClure (Gollancz, 12.10; the narrative betrays "the fundamental unease" which results from the author's attempt to reconcile his two aims of giving us "the feel of living in South Africa" and "spin/ning us along in a murder tale full of the most cunning and startling reversals"); A Coffin for the Canary, by Gwendoline Butler (Macmillan, 11.95; "wanting to give us a touch of the philosophicals, a London killing designed to show how each individual puts a different meaning to drab event, she has necessarily embarked on a plot of extraordinary complexity . . . /but/ in sticking to the truth of her characters she cannot clearly and concisely convey needed information. Too often one does not know facts which would make the whole concept clear"); A Very Good Hater, by Reginald Hill (Collins, L2; "As many twists as a snake, but dissapointingly cold for Hill"); How to Live Dangerously, by Joan Fleming (Collins, 12; "Properly less extravagant than other Flemings, none the less it is sometimes desperately over the top, alas"); The Godwulf Manuscript, by Robert B. Parker (Deutsch, 12.25; "The classic formula handled with a sure touch and an added dash of real compassion. Savor it"); The Boon Companions, by June Drummond (Gollanzz, 11.90; "intense, unreal atmosphere you'll either revel in or revolt at").

PREHENSILE #12 (undated) (Mike Glyer, 14974 Osceola St., Sylmar, CA 91342, & Milt Stevens, 14535 Saticoy, #105, Van Nuys, CA 91405; approx. quarterly; 50¢; off-set; 5½" x 8½") — 98 pp., incl. covers (fc by Joe Pearson; bc not credited); ills. by Pearson, Bill Rotsler, Robt. Wilson, Grant Canfield, Jim Shull, Marc Schirmeister, Wayne MacDonald, Albrecht Durer, Bruce Townley, Sheryl Birkhead, Rick Wadholm, Jay Kinney, Jim McLeod, Harry Bell, Marty Larson; Editorials by Mike and Milt; Milt reports on the '74 Nebula Banquet (L.A.); Dave Locke reviews The Curse of the Atomic Piles, by Henry Orvis Roide; Jodie Offutt's "Diary of a Mad Housewife"; Mike Glicksohn's fanzine review column; Dan Goodman on bidding for a Worldcon; Richard Wadholm on Malzberg's Beyond Apollo; misc. book reviews by Stan Burns and Mike Glyer; Bill Warren reviews films (Zardoz, The Exorcist); Richard Wadholm reviews a short story and a record; poem by Marc Schirmeister; lettercolumn. ## Seems to improve with each issue; recommended. (Only wish we knew how he manages at only 50¢ ea....)

SECOND DEGENERATE (undated) (?, 1859 E. Fairfield, Mesa, AZ 85203 (maybe it's by Lord Jim Khennedy, or maybe by Doug Woods; it doesn't say...); don't see (or maybe it's there but we just can't read it) a price or schedule; mimeo) -- 14 pp. / cover (by ?); Editorial notes/announcements; lettercolumn; fanzine reviews; two offset pages containing part of a comic strip from FANTASY REVOLUTION #3 (don't know who the artist is); one-page OSFFA NEWS II:2 (30/5/74), ed. Doug Woods (OSFFA being the Organized S.F. Fans of Arizona). ## Unfortunately, the repro in this issue is so bad (except for the F.R. excerpt) that we could read little of it.

S.F. ECHO #20 (Edward Connor, 1805 N. Gale, Peoria, IL 61604; dated June '74; 75¢ ea., 3/$2, 5/$3; no schedule given; mimeo; 4 3/8" x 7", bound as a book; volume in the Moebius Strip Library) -- 160 pp. / covers (fc by Anon; bc flap by Rotsler) & 4 full-page unnumbered illos (by Anon, DFA, Rotsler, Mike Gilbert); misc. illos by Anon, R.D. Hack, Rotsler, Sheryl Birkhead, Jeff Schalles, Dan Strelkov; Tom Collins on Watership Down; Paul Walker interviews Robert Bloch; Randall Larson on the joys of a fan when meeting his favorite fan-object personalities; Ed reviews Robert Bloch's American Gothic; Ben Indick on the art of book reviwing; Douglas Leingang reviews Donn Brazier; Bill Wolfenbarger's column; Walt Liebscher miscellany; book reviews, by Ed Connor, Don Ayres, Cy Chauvin, Bill Bliss, Jeff May, Ken Faig; short reviews of recent new fanzines; Editorial notes; lots of letters. ## One of our favorite fanzines, in a handy, easy-to-hold and easy-to-read fanzine (which, unfortunately, doesn't fit in our stacks of 8½ x 11" fanzines...). Recommended.

SOUTH OF THE MOON II:1 (Aug. '74; Richard Small, 117 S. Meridian St., #3, Tallahassee, FL 32301; quarterly, offset; 3/$1.25; free for info on APA's or 3" x 9" stamped, self-addressed envelope) --4 pp. / 2-ng. mimeo supplement; Editorial; Index to currently-active Amateur Press Associations (35 / 10 more in supplement), with full details on each. ## Very useful if you're considering joining an APA, or are just curious about what's going on in the world of APA's. Next issue will report on those APA's which, for one reason or another, are now "dead".

STAR FIRE #3 (Bill Breiding, 2240 Bush St., San Francisco, CA 94115; mimeo (offset cover); 40¢ ea.; no schedule given) -- June '74 issue; 42 pp. / covers, 2 full-page (offset?) illos, & 4-pg. / "Penguin" satirical booklet by James Hall; fc by Sheryl Birkhead; bc by Dave Barnett; illos by Birkhead, Barnett, Eric Mayer, Leah Zeldas, Lou Horacek, Sutt Breiding, ? (name is illegible); Editorial; "Incident in an Ale House", by Chris Sherman; Dale Donaldson on fear; Warren Johnson reviews Universe 3; poetry by Paula Marmor and Steve Porter; James Hall on "Begoniaism"; Roger Sween reminisces on his life at age 15; "Writing for the Birds", by Reed Andrus; Sutton Breiding reviews Bill Henderson's Publish-It-Yourself Handbook; John Rodel visits a graveyard after seeing The Exorcist; lettercolumn. ## Another fanzine which has shown considerable improvement with each successive issue.

Highly recommended to all horror-film buffs.

MOONBROTH (Dale Donaldson, POBox C, Bellevue, WA 98009; offset; irregular; lea., in advance; published "loose-leaf" style) -- #1 (undated): 20 pp.; introductory editorial; illos by Jeff Birchill; fiction ("Blake's Behemoth", by Frances Aldrich; "Basement Workshop", by Hugh Malvern; a page on vampires. ## #2 (undated): 20 pp.; illos by Jeff Birchill, J. Davis; fiction ("Pardonable Error", by William Demic; "Sasquacide", by Pauline McTavish); poem: "Finale", by Dale Donaldson; Editorial; more on vampires. ## #3 (undated): 21 pp.; illos by Jeff Birchill, John H. Davis; Guest Letter-Editorials; fiction ("Pisca-Musk", by Hugh Malvern); Editorial. #### We should note that MOONBROTH is printed on one side of the page only, and that at least two illos/issue are full-pagers. IN a note to us Dale says, "Please do not review as a fanzine. MOONBROTH pays all contributors." And in a flyer with the 1st issue, he said "MOONBROTH is neither a prozine or a fanzine. The Library of Congress classifies her as a 'book'--we'll abide by that decision." Well, TwJ is also classified as a "book"....so we'll treat MOONBROTH as a semi-prozine, like ETERNITY (and ALGOL?). Excellent repro, with nicely fantastic artwork by Birchill. The fiction we'll leave for one of our staff reviewers.
