Cousin Guy's Early Bird Stats (through the SFPA #220)

A rare occasion finds Norm Metcalf with the first zine in the mailing, leaving him just 24 short of passing Ned Brooks. In other words, four years from this mailing we could have a new leader. Then again, the Saints could win the Super Bowl. Hmmm, calculate the odds of either happening.

Let's hope that while Guy is preparing for the 40th anniversary of the SFPA and gets all this marriage stuff out of the way, he'll be able to finally come up with the total list for the Early Bird Stats.

There was some dip in a lot of scores this time around, but most of them were smallish. However, I'm creeping up on second place T.K. Weisskopf. If only I had done those extra three pages of mailing comments last time! Meanwhile, new member Trinlay Khadro debuts in sixth place with a 24-page mailing. But that's not an easy number to hold up. But the really big news is that George Wells came up with a dozen big pages for the 220th mailing. It was a really, really long title.

And finally, Janet Larson has the twin-effect and drops to the bottom of the box scores. Who does she think she is, the governor of Massachusetts? (Just funnin' Janet.)
