Like Seabiscuit coming from far back in the pack, mike weber has quickly moved up over the past year to take a solid hold on second place in the Box Scores and coming close to dethroning long-time page champ Jeff Copeland. Of course, all this is tainted because the two members on top are in the habit of using Nancy-Boy less-than-a-full-sheet-of-paper for their zines, giving them a visual, if not metric advantage over the rest of us. But we're not bitter about it. Still, their contributions found them high atop the Box Scores and setting the standard for the rest of the pack. Not to forget, David Schlosser made a nice jump from tenth place to seventh.
