Well, the New Yorkers' write ups should in this distribution, so I won't be stealing their thunder by writing this up now. Two weeks ago tomorrow (as of this disty) I called Mike McInerney, about 6:45 our time, or 9:45 his time, right in the middle of a Fistfa meeting. John Boardman, who has a very irritating voice to go along with his politics, answered the phone: "Duffy's Tavern, Duffy speaking."
I came back with, "I represent Concord Associated Technical Services, and I was wondering if you would be interested in some photography."

"Would these photographs come from Tiajuana, by any chance?"

"Oh, no. All our photographs are prepared in our Photo Lab in Los Angeles."

"Would you be calling from your home office?" ((He was obviously wise to me.))

"Yes."

"Would I, by any chance, be speaking to Mr. Barry Gold? ((Sudden increase in background noise at this point.))"

"You would."

And so forth. The background noise got progressively louder as time went on, and, after some 25 minutes, I hung up due to inability to make myself heard at that distance. Taking dgv's suggestion, the next call, whenever it occurs, will be to a Fanoclast meeting. ((Dave says they're quieter than fistfa, but I think a call from LA to NY would make any meeting noisy. Still, there's something to be said for our organized meetings...the director has at least a chance to keep things quiet.)) Ted White has an unlisted number, but I got it from Van Arnam.
So Ted will be hearing from me sometime in the next month. Fout on Tom Gilbert and airmail special delivery APA L dwps.

Does anyone need an old davenport? we've got one, and it's one piece of furniture too many in our family room. It's too old and not quite old enough to sell, so you can have it for free.

5? FØRMAT(6Hbbbbbb), being random comments on the 51st disty.

COVER: Very nice.

REKCIP-TIN #22 (Hilda Hoffman): How naive can you get?

SCHMOZ #4 (Phil Castora): I agree entirely. Censorship is a bad thing.

MAYHEM ANNEX #4 (Felice Rolfe): This one is a week late because I was up at Tech when it arrived. A major problem with these is that I never know whether a given ish is coming to me or Patten.

That sentence means...oh never mind, I know what it means, but I can't reduce it to non-mathematical terminology. Reduced to basics, it claims that physics describes the real world...an obviously false statement.

EXPLETIVE (Bjo): How about Tolkein playing cards. Does the Frodo of Hobbits overtake the Legolas of Elves, and, if so, what about the Gloin of Dwarves?

DER HOLLANDER #29 (Fred Hollander): Actually, I only went to the poker party to get converted. However, I did inspire Jayn to win about 25¢ during the first hour or so. Luckily, my car hadn't blown a head gasket, it was just the heater hose. Still, things like that make me wonder if it isn't time to get a new car?

I agree with you on civil disobedience, but what if someone thinks the laws against lynching Negroes are unjust, and decides to demonstrate by violating them? What then?

MALAISIAN FLU #49 (Ted White): Your comment to Durk Pearson on the emotional stresses of multiple sex make a very good argument for marital fidelity; much better, in fact, than those of a Protestant theologian who spent a week in Lloyd House. We gave him Stranger in a Strange Land to read, and the only argument he had against was a simple assumption, unsupported by evidence or even his own experience, that it is impossible to feel (sexual) love for more than one person at a time. I won't argue with you: with a purity score of 89, I'm in no position to. (N experience)

BALDRIC #3 (Lon Atkins): Answers to your quiz: #1: 165 £, as Tom Gilbert will quickly discover the trickery. #2: 242 £ as follows... 152 £ pushing with his feet against the floor, and 90 lbs pushing off from the nearest fan. Or, more likely, 0. Hulan doesn't play Bourre with LASFSians; he can't win enough to make it worth his while. #3: LA, obviously, when all four chairmen get into feuds and make feuds and make fools of themselves, leaving the field wide open for mild-mannered, non-feuding, inoffensive (see TAPS) Dave Hulan and the Pan Pacificon.

EXTRAPOLATOR #4 (Durk Pearson): you are confusing the scientific drive with the creative drive.

BARAD-DUR #14 (Mike Klassen): I can't identify the language, but I'LL guess Saxon. The phrase is, of course, One Ring to rule them all, etc.

MAYHEM ANNEX #20 (Felice Rolfe): I agree with the article, so far. Hmm, our culture is pathologically afraid of both Homosexuality and Incest. Hmm! Hmm!

In spite of some rather extensive editing, this is going to run to three pages.

FROM SUNDAY TO SATURDAY (Don Fitch): You're darn right I'm convinced of police brutality! If the Police treated me like they treated that Negro TIMES reporter I mentioned, the first 3 places I would go (after I got out of the hospital) would be: Mayor Yorty's office to raise hell about it 2) My lawyer, to file suit 3) The local FBI office, to file charges.

For further info, see Fred Lerner's TT.

TOPAZE #8 (Jayn Ellern): "All he ever does with me is giggle!" What do you expect me to do, when you, knowing I'm ticklish, persist in tickling my beard. I only let you get away with tickling me for the sake (pronounce that whichever way you please) of the goddess.

ALL DIGRESSION WEEKLY #31 (Milt Stevens): "A Creative person merely has to gravitate to an area of society which considers creative activity to be an admirable thing." Yes, and Fandom is such a place. But even in Fandom, those with the creative urge aren't contented.
end of comments

hey, TED WHITE. If I attend a Fanoclasts meeting by phone, can I dictate an APA F contribution to someone who types fast?

MMM. Is anyone interested in holding some kind of party in my place. We got plenty of room for awake people, although we're a little short of sleeping space, so New Years partys and the like are impossible, but card parties would be fine, or we might bring down the Fliegpess and have a one-shot party.
