

DECEPTION #16 is published for APA L by Richard Iann of B331 Bryan Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan 48823. The date is February 1, 1965. Some day I think I'll change that title into something a bit more appropriate. Finally, this is ROMPress Publication No. 37. I think the ditto will work right this time.

JOCK ROOT FOR TAPP

DWAIN KAISER: Yep, you're a vile knave and a treacher, all right.

LEN BAILES: It is so a big deal. One of my great ambitions has always been to get ahead of Len Bailes in pub numbers. Now all I have to do is get ahead of you in total published pages. Which might be difficult, considering that some 17 of the total 37 have been one-pagers. ##I also can see no justice (that word again!) in voting no award on the short stories this year. While it may have had no great long short stories, I think it's about time we got some short ones elected anyway. Therefore (and because I liked it terrifically), I'm voting for "Little Dog Gone" by Robert F. Young for the category. And while on the subject, I want to know why there haven't been any collections for Robert F. Young's things. He's a fine writer, and there should be eight or ten collections of his stuff.

JAY FREEMAN: Remarkable, remarkable. 55 copies from a cushion sheet. Another advantage of the ditto medium. Just you try and see how many copies you can get from the cushion sheet in a mimeo stencil. ##My stack of books to be read is 13 1/2 inches high, and they're all stf books. Argh!

HENRY STINE: Hank, if you don't cut out this Ayn Rand bit (which is so utterly boring, you know), I shall begin to take the minutes of the ISU stf group's weekly meetings, and then pub them for APA L. How would you like that?

DON FITCH: Gee, I've already had an era in fandom.

CREATH THORNE: Glad to see you here, Creath (as in Death). I'd be most happy to have your Speed-O-Print -- it does perfectly acceptable work, better than that of a lot of people with better machines. I understand it takes you too long to do anything decent with it, though. ##None to see you here regularly.

PHIL CASTORA: No, I wasn't Putting You On about the Beatles. I enjoy them. And they do bring back that wonderful feeling that I had about fandom back in the Early Days. And I the Ventures guitar sounds, too. Typical teenager, me.

DAVE VAN ARNAN: While I can't claim to be able to write decently onto a master or stencil the first time, I don't think I do it as badly as some others might. Maybe. ##The second part of DARK UNIVERSE? But I thought that was an original. What magazine and what dates on it?

This is a glorious opposite side, pre-empted for use by George Fergus, ignominious roommate of the madman represented on the other side. Can any of you fellows out there on the West Coast take pity on an ignorant indexer of ACE Books who is trying to amend the awful omissions of Don Wollheim in the matter of previous magazine publications? If so, then where did these novels originally appear:
