-- EDITORIAL --

The delayed deadline for this issue seems to have met with approval, at least to the extent of those who found time to write during what has become the hectic season of the year. We were surprised at the amount of copy received; naturally about half arrived a day or two late -- this is an immutable law & there is nothing that can be done to change it....! One good result was that we should be able to get back on the regular schedule with the next issue; we will extend the deadline to Monday, January 27th, but will try to make the mailing date the regular first of the month for overseas subscribers.

To the start the new year right, we are going to try to mitigate one of the more persistent irritations that has plagued us since we have first started publishing this little effort. Every month there are one or two advertisers who do not send cash with their copy and do not pay when their copy of the mag arrives, forcing us finally to take the time to prepare a bill & bill them. This is the standard business practice, I guess, but on an operation of this nature, when time and cash are always in short supply, it is a doggoned nuisance. We realize that it is often difficult to estimate the amount of space an ad will take from the rough copy, but a simple check of the rates against the printed advt when it arrives will give the exact amount due. So, effective with the next issue (#64) a 10% extra charge will be made on all accounts that must be especially billed and are not paid by the first of the following month. Savings in time & postage will help keep F.C. going, we hope....! G.B.

THE BRITISH SCENE

by

C. R. Kearns

The new year is usually the time for counting issues and pages of last year's magazines, but I don't feel like calling a feast with the host in the last stages of suicide...

Nova Publications folds as of March, 1964, after which there will be no original S.F. or Fantasy magazine being published in Britain. "New Worlds" first appeared in 1946 and in 1949, with the formation of Nova Publications, issue #4 hit the stands, the first of Nova's three: "S F Adventures" and "Science Fantasy" completing the trio.

All, to my way of thinking, have been aimed at the teen-aged audience, with "Science Fantasy" sometimes having more mature yarns. Carnell's offerings, never of very high standard, have been slipping sadly of late and I have often wondered who was buying the mags. More recent skimping of covers and contents have told their own tale of the battle being lost. Stories and authors I have thought to be good, and have urged on Carnell, have brought forth lofty, patronising letters telling me they are "difficult to read". The motto seems to have been: "Don't ruffle my teen-age audience"! Let us hope someone will now bring out a good fantasy or weird magazine in this country.

Chuntering generally about magazines, I forecast that "Analog" will be the next to go -- give it six months. After trying to read it's jolly lettercols and science articles, I'm afraid I'm not buying it any more (it costs 70¢ over here!).

"Venture" and "F & SF" are easily obtainable at 2/6; "Galaxy" is all but unobtainable, while "Worlds of Galaxy Rejects" -- beg your pardon -- "Worlds of Tomorrow" can sometimes be found if you search hard.

"Amazing" and "Fantastic" cannot be bought on the newstands but I have no difficulty in getting them regularly from Fantast (Medway)Ltd. Here's where I blush and admit the duo to be my favorites; "Amazing" for Moscovitz's articles and the classic reprints (and lately ERB new & reprint yarns) and "Fantastic" because it's contents often come near to the old W. T.

Carnell is not finished yet; he is to edit a regular collection of new SF stories for Corgi -- a sort of P.B. mag, like Star SF (I hope!), so British authors will still have an outlet of sorts for their talents.

The latest "Science Fantasy", Number 62, contains a long, long Science Fiction novel by Aldiss, "Skeleton Crew", about the schizophrenic captain of a nuclear freighter who is haunted eternally by the Figure. He wrecks his leviathan on the Skeleton Coast for a schizophrenic reason -- the destruction of mankind!

"Aspects of Fantasy - #2" - "The Floodgates of the Unconscious" by Mike Moorcock has descended below fanzine level. He concentrates on the Gothic Novel, by quoting big chunks from them -- all, no doubt, at so much per word -- and Freud, Freud, Fraud! He seems to be telling us that we are all "nut-cases" for reading fantasy, that "the forces which the writer may describe as supernatural.... are in fact, entirely natural. They are the forces locked in our own skulls". Good high-school psychology, no doubt -- but out of place in an Authoritative Work About Fantasy. I'd like to see this sort of thing done by someone with REAL authority, like Frank Farnell of Ipswich, for example...!

HAPPY NEW YEAR.....!

During 1961 and 1962, two friends of Clark Ashton Smith labored together on 36 Sundays at a hand-operated printing press, and separately perhaps twice as many long evenings setting and distributing type, in an attempt to produce a fine, hand-crafted book of CAS's poems.

Although the finished book -- bound by professionals of high repute -- physically falls short of the printers' goal of perfection, it does at least adequately present 46 pages of masterful poetry not available elsewhere. (And, notwithstanding the dissatisfaction of it's printers, the book per se has been given favorable attention by bibliophilic journals, and a majority of it's purchasers have offered embarrassingly enthusiastic praise.)

This book, THE HILL OF DIONYSUS -- A SELECTION, was completed a little over a year ago and was offered for sale in these editions and quantities :

100 copies of the "Regular Edition", hardbound;
65 copies of the same, paperbound;
and
15 copies of a "Limited Edition", of superior paper and binding, and with a poem typed & signed by Smith laid in.

Publicity for the book has been meager, wherefore only 32, 34 and 9 copies in the respective editions, have been sold. 68, 31 and 6 copies remain available at their original prices of $6.50, $3.75 and $25.

Obviously no one need rush to buy one; yet, with an eye to the stiff prices commanded by Smith's out-of-print "Sandalwood", "Odes and Sonnets", and "Ebony and Crystal", it is suggested that an indefinitely long delay might be regretted...

Finally, the Crackel collection of fantasy books has been sold -- any inquiries for individual items should be directed to:

Capitol Book Store
206 N. Meridian, Indianapolis, Indiana

Black Lantern Books is now back in business...I have purchased 2,500 science fiction and weird pulps, along with some 500 pocket books, I have not yet catalogued them, but do know there are no Weirds before 1939 nor any ERB items.

None of the issues can be described as mint condition -- however if you are interested in copies in from poor to excellent condition, send me your want list. Prices on this lot will range from 50¢ to $3.00 -- none higher, none lower -- price depends on age and condition. Will give you a description of the magazines before shipping...maybe I can help you fill your collection.....

I have been forced to the conclusion that I collect too darned much. So, with reluctance, I have decided to part with some of my collection. After a good bit of soul-searching, it was decided that the science-fiction and fantasy magazine collection would be the section to go.

This particular collection comprizes roughly 1700 magazines -- many of which are in near mint condition. It covers the vast majority of magazines in this field published between 1938 and 1958, as well as many earlier issues....

Based on prices usually quoted in F.C., I would appraise the lot conservatively at about $1200.00. If anyone is interested in the entire collection, I will sell it for approximately $750.00. To anyone sincerely interested in the lot, I will supply a complete listing and description. Shipping costs to be shared 50-50, which should be in the order of $30.00 each.

My pocket-book science-fiction and fantasy collection will also have to go. Hundreds of titles are available. 3 for $1.00 postpaid, my choice or send your want lists. Minimum order on these will be $2.00.
