There is a subterranean city inside a mountain near Joinville. It was built by Atlanteans who escaped with the group led by the legendary Noah. We have met the Atlanteans on various occasions. They have been heard singing and we have seen strange illuminations at night. Here is the greatest place for such research since Brazil was a colony of Atlantis and the good Atlanteans who escaped the nuclear war and flood found refuge in the subterranean cities they built in the highlands of Brazil. These cities are connected by tunnels both with the surface and with a network of subterranean cities composing the subterranean empire. To date we have not reached the first subterranean city, though we have met the Atlanteans on the surface. Dr. Raymond Bernard, Santa Catarina, Brazil. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Bernard is author of THE HOLLOW EARTH, FLYING SAUCERS FROM THE EARTH'S INTERIOR, AGHARTA THE SUBTERRANEAN WORLD and is considered to be the leading authority on the subject. We hope to have more information from this author from time to time.)

About five years ago I had some friends who lived in Phoenix, Arizona, who were interested in cave lore. I had told a couple of neighbor boys of my interest in caves and since they were always tramping the hills I told them to tell me of any new caves they might find. One evening they came and told of a cave they had discovered up north and west of Rincon, New Mexico. Well I sat right down and wrote to my friends in Phoenix and I received a letter right back from them telling me that they would be down the following weekend. Well they came and also brought a woman and a man with them. We all crowded into their station wagon and headed for the cave.

I had thought I would go into it myself until I saw it. It had a small opening and you had to go into it on a rope. One of the little neighbor kids scurried right in and then it was my friend Charles Marcouxturn and when he got about half way down he slipped on the rope and burned his hands quite badly. We spent all that afternoon making a rope ladder to get him out. Just before they pulled him out his wife suggested that we sit in the car a little as the suspense was getting her down. So she and I and one of the little neighbor boys went to the car (which was parked about a half a block away). Suddenly while Marie and I were talking, George looked up and said "Someone's calling me!" He jumped out of the car and headed for the cave on a dead run. We hurried after him. When he got to the cave the other woman said "George we need you now to help pull Marc out I didn't want to alarm Marie so I sent you a mental message". George looked around to me and said "Didn't you hear her call?" I didn't. I wish I had helped pull on the rope when they pulled Charles out because the last few feet they said it was like pulling on an empty rope. He didn't weigh a thing. When he climbed out he said "I was lavatated the last few feet."

We then started driving out of the area. The first thing we noticed was a little light that began popping in and out of some sparce clouds toward the north. Then suddenly a huge green fireball came down out of the sky and just hung over us for a few moments. Then in all of the excitement someone handed me the binoculars and I said "Take a look down the road." I don't know just how far this was because I was seeing it through binoculars but down the road I could see a white metal disk and standing a little ways from it was a man. He had on a white turrie with two black stripes down the front. His skin seemed to be quite dark.

I said "Come on lets go closer and get a better look." Well George got the closest look and he said when he saw the man again he had jumped up onto the side of the disk and then George looked back to see where we were and when he looked back the disk was slithering off down the mesa.

We then got back into the car and started home again. Then in many places out on the mesa there were big V shaped shafts of light. Some were red, some were green, and some were amber.

Other times I have been in that same area and I have seen strange lights. Toward the east of this area lies the San Andres Mts. This is where about 30 years ago a man called Doss found a great treasure of gold bars inside a small mountain. Read "The Curse of the San Andres." Doss said when he got inside this cave there were tunnels that ran the full length of the San Andres Mts. This area is now on army property and you would have to get permission to get into it. But not the area I was in. This is just one of my experiences, there are many more which I will pass on. Mrs. Cosette Willoughby, Ben Lomono, California.

A STRANGE REGION AT THE NORTH POLE — A CITY OF ICE-RAINBOW CITY

PIPPA BRAYBROOK - ENGLAND REPORTER

I have known for some amount of time a Mr. W. South who lives in Crescent, Brighton, Sussex, England. His story is as follows. "When I lived in Cornwall, I used to visit a sheep farmer's house in the middle of the Moor. Over a cup of tea, he revealed to me, by showing me a paybook of the German Navy, that he himself had been, before the war, an explorer in the ice regions of Alaska and North Canada. When he talked with the fur-trappers in the Hudson Bay Co. HQ he was shown rare maps of a certain field and heard of a hidden world. Leaving Canada with this information, the time being 1939, he returned to Germany and was given a Secret Mission with a 1,200 ton New Long Range Submarine, a new survey boat.

"During my period in Cornwall, I often visited him and have recently written to him about our mission to find the ice city (known as Rainbow City). He wrote me a very guarded letter saying that he dared not write anything about it in a letter and that I must contact him in person.

"Commander X was a secret agent for years with a cover story. He says: 'There is in the region of the Ice City of the North one Portal or door in Northern Canada, or in Alaska in the mountain regions under a frozen waterfall. Here are huge caves of electronic apparatus and huge storage rooms controlled by robot machines, worked by a computer, a super-brain machine. Here also is a solar orb, used as sunlight. Huge lakes of warm waters of thermal springs abound. There is a vast Hall of growing plants, food tended by robots and supervised by the ice-men of Thule.

"The Eskimos always spoke of the great Gods of the Cave of the Whales, under a certain ice-shelf, a trapper found the white whales' graveyard of white bones. He entered this under-ice world but escaped in a golden boat with a paddle of unknown metal. Off he set upon a fast underground river through miles of black tunnels deep inside the earth. He could hear thundering noises somewhere ahead, and see a glimmer of sunlight. At last, he found himself in a narrow exit to the sea of ice: he had escaped."

This reminds us of "Phantom of the Poles" by William Reed. His hero was sucked in his canoe into an aperture in the Bering Straits and paddled his way to the South Pole. The strange boat is reminiscent of the one used by the sightless guide to the earth's interior in "Etidorpha" by John Uri Lloyd.

Many writers refer to the existence of inhabited areas in the Antarctic both above and below the ice. The Hefferlins who contacted Emry Deutsch, a violinist still living in New York who described Rainbow City, a terminus for the trains which travel by tunnel through every part of the earth's interior.

DID YOU KNOW?

In Mexico about 15 years ago near San Lorenzo scientists found several huge heads weighting over 30,000 pounds and measuring 6 feet across, 20 feet in circumference and 9 feet high. Plaster casts were made and placed in the New York Museum of Natural History. The museum experts could not explain how the natives of over 2,000 years ago were able to perform this feat of engineering which they admit modern man could not possibly achieve since the nearest site to obtain the volcanic rock of which the heads are made is more than 60 miles from where the huge heads were found.

According to an old Indian legend these imagies were formed in this manner -- "When the great floods came, the medicine man was able to stay the floods four times, but the fifth time he saw that his powers could not stay the waters, and so half of his people journeyed into the earth to the other side, and the medicine man, with the rest of his people were turned into stone when the medicine man cast his magic staff to the ground.

According to other legends there is an actual entrance to the underground haven of the Titans, Lemurians and Atlans in many states including Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, Colarado, Nevada, and California. These entrances are connected by tunnels, which appear to be centrally located in Arizona. Several large openings have been found, but go unexplored to this very day. In one of the mountain ranges near Phoenix, Arizona there is a tunnel, man made, which leads to an intersection with 7 tunnels branching out from it. It is believed that one of these leads to an area somewhere in the Grand Canyon.

In 1944, and the early part of '45, pilots stationed at Fort Hucaccua, in Arizona, were being interrogated about seeing "things" during their flights, things which frightened them beyond a point of making them good pilots. These pilots and trainees were transferred to other bases. Whatever these things were, they must have been frightening, because most all the young pilots were shaken to badly to continue their training, while older pilots maintained what they saw. It appears that the government was well aware of these objects long before the Arnold sighting in 1947.

In May of 1959 two miners prospecting in the Phoenix, Arizona area noted several small children seemingly playing near and in a small creek which has water in it only during the Spring season. To find the children that far from home is unheard of especially since there has been over 400 people mysteriously killed in this same area since 1825. Several people are killed in this same area each year. Now these small children, about 5 or 6 years old, were seen in this same area day after day as these two persons went about their prospecting. One day, one of them went down to investigate, when he got there, they had gone, but not their footprints, which were still fresh in the sand about the creek. These prints appeared as MINUTURE DUPLICATES OF ENGINEER BOOTS. Other witnesses claim to have even seen these little men at closer range, but they always vanish leaving only strange markings behind. There have been many strange legends about tales of dwarfs in the same area. The Irish appear to have nothing on Arizona.

Near McAlester, Oklahoma, is a cave that is reported to have large steps going down to an unknown depth. The steps are 18 inches high, 10 feet from side to side, about a yard broad. From what has been reported, the cave has been penetrated for about a mile and without finding an end to the steps. There is a supposedly bottomless Abyss along one side of the steps.

A party or parties which have penetrated this cave, had a terrifying experiance with some humanoid type creatures in this cave. From what has been reported a pair of six guns is what saved our party from an embarrassing situation.

There is a Dero cave near the vicinity of Tacoma, Washington where the much talked about Maury Island incident occured. We are told that they are responsible for the strange going ons in relationship to this case. Why are we not told more about this?

A director of a UFO group in Alamogordo, New Mexico a number of years back is said to have had a very peculiar experience. It happened up in the mountains, in Cloudcroft, along about Thanksgiving. He started to leave a cabin in which he was staying and suddenly he blacked out. He came to in his car driving down the mountain. He said in front of him there were two large globes which he drove all the way through. He said for a while the whole left side of his body and face were paralyzed. It took him several days to get over it. The Air Force said he was crazy. He said when he left the cabin it was 4:30 P.M. When it was all over it was 7:30 P.M.

About twenty five miles from Raleigh, North Carolina is a large area, about two miles which is roped off and guarded. Anyone found near this area is shoot at and then questioned. It is said that there is an opening there where the U.S. Army trades with the Cavern World.

In the news recently has been the so called wonder drugs which have caused deformed babies. A few years back a nurse in one Flint, Michigan hospital is said to have helped to give birth to a human child, whose head, was "reptilian".

It is predicted that by the end of 1968 man will be attacked by fire, which will fall like rain from the sky. It will be Atomic but not necessarily caused by war.

Reports from several sources indicate that the Indians of the Southwest and Mexico, have been migrating to the mountain areas of Arizona and Colorado. There is a legend connected with this it seems that the "Voice" of the great "Spirit Chief" is returning. This is quite similiar to what we are told in the Bible - "Flee to the Mountains" after certain signs. I refer you to St. Matthew 24 and 25 chapters - from the fifth verse on.

~~There are countless legend of various tribes on the North American continent, which claim to have come from the North Pole, some saying by way of underground caves, and reaching into Canada and parts of Tennessee, Arkansas, and Missouri, where they settled on the surface. Some Eskimos claim that they came up from the bowels of the earth from the north pole. Other tribes of Indians claim to have battled with strange spider women which they clame came up from an opening somewhere in the Grand Canyon.~~

There is a huge cave near Magdalena, New Mexico either in the Bear Mts. Range or in the Magdalena Range south of the city. The cave opening is said to be so huge that you could ride your horse in, or drive a car into it. The brush surrounding the entrance to the cave is extreme and was discovered only by accident. The cave is said to be almost inaccessible to get to.

According to many mystic legends, man came from space, a BLUE race of super beings with great wisdom and mighty wings that bridged the seperations of nations and worlds. It is supposedly believed that these people were from Venus.

The insistance that Blue men were the colonists of earth, can be found throughout the primitive amistic religions of the world, which colors played an most important part. Celtic priests, Druids, and even the American Indians used blue predicmably in all their ceromonies, and war paint of these tribes favored Blue. Even some tribes of the American Indians claim their ancesteres came from the evening star - Venus.

Throughout Indonesian and Malayan areas, can be found ruins of infinitely old cities, and are said to be among the basic architectures of any dwellings up to within pre-christian time. One of the most interesting things of all former earth remains that being Easter Island.
